

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

The task of collecting data relative to the history and genealogy of the Van Buren family has been a pleasant one although laborious, for the branches are widely scattered and in many instances records have been lost through fire and the various vicissitudes consequent upon removals. Furthermore, many seem to have slight or no interest in their family history, hence numerous letters have received no reply and where there are apparently serious breaks in some lines it is not due to lack of effort on the part of the editor, but is the result of failure to elicit any response to requests for information. Especially has this been true as regards the history of families of intermarriages, which is regrettable particularly of the earlier marriages from which are numerous descendants.

In many instances no genealogies have been published and but meagre bits of information and frequently none at all, are available in the records of genealogical societies. This accounts for the fact that the Kingston branch of the family is not as thoroughly represented historically as are the Albany, Columbia, Dutchess and Fulton County branches, but it is not due to negligence on the part of the editor, for numerous letters have been addressed to persons claiming to have data regarding that large branch of the family, but despite promises to send such material they have failed so to do and the data given has in most instances had to be culled from printed material, hence if errors are found blame for same should not be given to the editor but to the works consulted which are listed below. The fulness of detail regarding the Fulton County branch was made possible by the hearty co-operation of Mr. Clarence E. Van Buren and ably seconded by the Misses Foote and J. Van Buren, also Mrs. Low, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Ferguson.

While my own personal researches cover a period of only ten years, I have been extremely fortunate in securing the co-operation of those whose researches antedate mine by some years, such for example as that of Mr. Frank J. Conklin of Jersey City, whose admirable articles published in the N. Y. Genealogical and Biographical Record were the means of inciting my interest to carry my own investigations beyond the bounds of my own family line. Another condition that has added to the difficulties already enumerated has been the fact of the early records having been in Dutch, of which language but few are now students and also that clerks and even the ministers of the various churches did not always spell names the same way each time. The editor regrets that after frequent attempts to locate our ancestor in Holland, thus far failure has resulted. Numerous courteous letters from various persons have been received but none were able to find any authentic data. The church records at Buren, supposed to have been the locality from whence Cornelis came were not commenced until after he was in America. The editor has written both private individuals and State authorities but to no avail; should any one ever be successful in this search, if they would send their data to the editor their courtesy would be greatly appreciated.

Every one who has delved in genealogical mines knows the liability of errors to creep into ones notes, hence the editor bespeaks your kind forbearance when errors are discovered; likewise when omissions are found of material which the reader thinks should have been introduced, perhaps the editor endeavored to secure that very material and was unsuccessful.

The sign of + before a number indicates that the name of the person is again referred to under the same number in heavy type placed in centre of the line.

The editor takes great pleasure in mentioning those to whose courtesy she is indebted for much valuable information and also the authorities which have been consulted and from which numerous items have been culled.

CHAPTER I

Cornelis Maessen' Van Buren (1)

And his Descendants

As one of the evidences of the trend of modern thought may be noticed the difference in the manner of history writing.

Formerly it consisted mainly in the chronicling of events and transactions in which royalty was chiefly concerned, but as the principles of true Democracy have developed their influence upon the thought of the day, it has come to be realized that as the mighty ocean is fed by many rivers which in turn are the product of numerous smaller streams, so this great nation is composed of many separate streams or families, each of which have their own individual characteristics largely inherited from their Old World ancestry.

In attempting to write a history worthy of the name of the Van Buren family, it is well to consider their antecedant history that we may the better understand why they have held the places they have in the local and National history of the New World.

Our fore-bear, Cornelis Maessen, came from Holland, and in this connection it would not be inopportune to consider somewhat in detail some of the most important chapters in the history of that famous country, as it will aid us in better understanding the character of our ancestors who settled the New World, especially as they played such a large part in the making of history in the Empire State of New York.

I shall quote quite freely from an address by Rev. Elbert S. Porter, D.D., made at the centennial celebration of the church at Claverack, Columbia County, N. Y. This seems the more appropriate as this County was the home of so many of the earlier families of the Van Burens and as many of the births and deaths as well as marriages were recorded in the records of this old church.

"The Reformation" of the sixteenth century produced the republic of the Netherlands. Its seven provinces united their strength against Charles the Fifth and Philip the Second, his son. After a war of unexampled fortitude, courage and heroism—a war which lasted through a period of eighty years—the Batavian republicans had beaten all their papal enemies on land and sea, and established a government the like of which for wisdom and liberality the European world had never seen. It is but simple truth to claim that when our own government was to be framed its framers had no better model in all the past to consult than the one furnished by the seven provinces of the Netherlands. Civil and religious liberty, of which we boast, the Netherlands had secured in a good degree for themselves; and not only for themselves, but also for Huguenot, Puritan, Walloon, and Bohemian, by their unexcelled bravery in an age when civil and ecclesiastical despotism had turned nearly the whole world into either a prison-house or a field of carnage.

The most critical investigations have established the fact that the aboriginal inhabitants of the Low Countries were never brought under the yoke of a military conqueror. Caesar overran Gaul and portions of Germany, but the Batavii and the Belgi, having delivered battle in the field, retreated into their native forests or morasses and there defied the advance of the Roman eagle.

A hardier, tougher, or more independent race has not been found among all the tribes of Japheth than were the rude people who at the beginning of the Christian era were contending with the waves and tides of the North Sea, as their descendants fifteen hundred years afterward were found fighting with dauntless courage against the perfidy of Rome and the cruelty of Philip.

In the history of the civilized world there is not a single parallel to the marvelous energy and uncompromising vigor of purpose which from generation to generation characterized the inhabitants of the Low Countries. Having first wrested their territory from the sea and then their freedom from the mouth of a Papal hell, ever ready to devour it and them, the Batavian republicans, at the beginning of the seventeenth century, presented a spectacle to which the eyes of the oppressed in all neighboring nations were turned.

Holland—Hollow Land—the chief province of the Republican Confederation, had the principal seaports, the largest cities, and the political capital, and thus gave its name to the people, language and state.

In the zenith of its power it ruled the seas by its marine, and controlled the commerce of the world through the enterprise of its merchants; while by the valor of its military chieftains and the wisdom of its statesmen, it held in check the ambition of Austria, Spain and France. Good and great principles, like light, shine for all. For this reason the liberty of Holland diffused itself among the peoples of despotic countries, and thus though the Batavian Republic, has long since lost its splendor, still its influence is felt to-day, wherever the Saxon tongue pours forth its passionate eloquence in praise of nations that have heroically and successfully struggled for the sacred cause of human rights.

In the year 1664 the New Netherlands, which had been occupied about forty years by the Hollanders, was ceded to the British crown, and Peter Stuyvesant retired from the Governorship of the Province. But though the sceptre of civil authority was transferred, still there remained at that time in the possession of the Hollanders in the Old World, all those elements of power which contribute most effectually to the development of individual enterprise, social prosperity, and national greatness. While England was strong enough to grasp and hold the New Netherlands, still she was too weak at home to be able, without the help of Holland, to secure or regulate the liberties of her own people.

Having been for nearly a century a sanctuary of refuge for the exiles from all lands, it was reserved for Holland at length to place upon the British throne a prince whose wisdom in council and whose valor in the field Europe had learned to admire. While commenting, with his usual power of description, upon the revolution of 1688 in England, the historian Macaulay awards the great stadtholder of Holland a place among the chief benefactors of his nation. These are his words: "For the authority of law, for the security of property, for the peace of our streets, for the happiness of our homes, our gratitude is due, under Him who raises and pulls down nations at His pleasure, to the Long Parliament, to the Convention, and to William of Orange."

While it is conceded that Holland asserted her benign ascendancy in securing freedom and prosperity to England, it must also be claimed, what impartial truth will sooner or later grant, that the early founders of the Empire State, from the beginning, held and exercised those principles which were afterward incorporated into our laws and institutions.

Chancellor Kent in an address before the New York Historical Society said: "The Dutch discoverers of New Netherlands were grave, temperate, firm, persevering men, who brought with them the industry, the economy, the simplicity, the integrity, and the bravery of their Belgic sires, and with those virtues they also imported the lights of the Roman civil law and the purity of the Protestant faith. To that period we are to look with chastened awe and respect, for the beginnings of our city and the works of our primitive fathers: our Albani patres, atque altae Romae."

Philosophical historians and large-minded statesmen have expressed their admiration of that good Providence which chose for the founders of the Empire State, men, who, in their native country, had been partakers of the fruits of regulated liberty, patient labor, and unwearied enterprise. Having seen with their own eyes the operation of a comparatively free and tolerant government in the Old World, they naturally desired to possess and to exercise the same rights here to which they had been accustomed from their childhood. Hence it came to pass that New York and Albany, from their foundation until this hour, have exerted a wholesome formative influence both upon the structure of our social life and the spirit of our legislation.

When the Puritans were persecuting those who like themselves had fled from persecution, the Hollanders were showing mercy and doing kindness to Jesuits and other time-long enemies. Zealous as they were for their own faith, yet they scorned the bigot's narrow and clouded path. While they insisted upon their own rights, they were at the same time generous in their consideration of the rights of others.

In 1630 Killian Van Rensselaer, a merchant of Amsterdam, purchased of the Red Men a tract of land around Fort Orange, or Albany, which was forty-eight miles long by twenty-four miles in breadth. This tract included what are now known as Albany and Rensselaer counties and also large portions of Greene, Montgomery, Schenectady, Saratoga, Schoharie and Columbia counties. Albany county included that portion which was eventually set off as Columbia county, until the 4th of April, 1786.

Hendrick Hudson sailed up the North River as far as where Albany now is in 1609. Adventurers came from Holland in 1614 and built a fort on what is yet called Castle Island and from which Castleton derives its name. In 1623 Fort Orange was built on the spot where the principal steamboat landing is now located, at Albany. An agricultural colony was planted in that year, from which time may be dated the permanent settlement of the region about Albany. A shipload of colonists arrived in 1630 and in 1631 came the ship d'Endracht, in which our ancestor Cornelis Maesen, came with many others, and settled about Rensselaerwyck, as that portion of the country was called. It has been impossible to determine with accuracy what religious instruction was provided among the people at Fort Orange prior to 1642, but Dr. Livingston in one of his manuscripts says: "In Albany they had ministers as early as any in New York, if not before them. It is certain, however that the Reformed Dutch Church there stood in the relation of parent to all of the same faith which were organized at an early date in the then district of Rensselaerwyck. The district was redivided, after the lapse of many years, into many smaller districts, such as we now style towns. Kinderhook and Claverack were the original districts, north of the Livingston Manor; both were erected into districts in the month of March, 1772. Kinderhook has a priority of just two days."

As the records of both these churches bear a long and honored list of names of the Van Buren family, the descendants may be pardoned if they exhibit a certain amount of pride, as well as gratitude, that their ancestors were instrumental in promoting those principles which the foregoing quotations from Dr. Porter's address show plainly to have been an inheritance of those who emigrated to the New World from Holland. As a family the Van Burens have been found in many walks of life, many of them being farmers, others merchants, manufacturers and artisans, while large numbers have entered the professions as teachers, lawyers, physicians or ministers. While Martin as President of the United States was the most conspicuous member of the family, others were equally as successful in their chosen line of public activities.

Among the marked racial characteristics of the family may be mentioned their absolute democracy, for while proud of their lineage and history they are singularly free from hauteur or the "I am holier than thou" atmosphere. They are noted for probity of word and deed, frequently the characterization being made, "his word is as good as his bond." As a family they are not wealthy; while there are some marked exceptions to this the rank and file are people of moderate means. They have always been a religious family, following mostly the Dutch Reformed faith, while some have entered Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, or Episcopal churches. They have always been a people who have loved education and their names are to be found on the roster of nearly all the great institutions of learning in the United States as well as in Holland.

Their loyalty to their country has been well attested by the long lists of names to be found in the annals of the various wars of the New World, and many are the deeds of valor recorded and honors awarded. Not less has been their interest in local matters, as shown by their frequently being chosen by their fellowmen to hold offices of trust and honor in their several communities. One correspondent stated "there were no criminals or paupers among the family." If this be so it should be a source of gratitude to the members of the family that there is "no blot on the escutcheon."

As to physical appearance, the men are usually of medium height, of well-built frame, dark-haired and blue eyed, with a manner denoting self reliance, but withal a geniality that always makes them favorites socially and well liked as neighbors. The women are seldom above medium height, usually blue-eyed, neither markedly blond or brunette, possessed of affable manners and fluent speech.

In the early part of the seventeenth century surnames were seldom used, especially among the Dutch, the men being known as sons of so-and-so, the suffix sen being added to the father's name, which followed that of the son and the terminal se being added to the father's name which followed that of the daughters.

Another custom prevailed of adopting as a surname the name of the particular town or even the locality from which they had emigrated as their surname. As the influence of the English people became more dominant, they having adopted the custom of surnames, the Dutch people followed suit and we find them gradually adopting surnames.

The early records being in Dutch has complicated the matter of research, but thanks to the very efficient work of Dr. van Laer, the State Archivist at Albany, the work has been greatly simplified the last few years. According to these records, in 1631 among the Van Rensselaer party came one who is described as Cornelis Maesen van Buurmalsen, or Buijrmalsen—a small village in Gelderland, near Buren, on the ship Endracht.

In April, 1660, in the ship Gilded Otter, came Gerrit Aartsen van Beuren, and Gerrit Cornelissen van Beuren, both named as "agriculturists."

In 1700 came Dr. Johanes, or Jan van Beuren.

Whether these men were all from the same original ancestor in Holland has never been proved. It is difficult to get information from Holland, as in many instances records have been destroyed by fires; in some localities they commence after the men were already in America.

This history deals exclusively with the known descendants of Cornelis Maessen, who came here in 1631. There has been a tradition among some of the descendants that originally the family was one of the branches descended from the Count de Buren, whose daughter Anna married William of Orange and Nassau. Like many traditions there has never been produced any positive proof or disproof, but to students of history it is not at all impossible or even improbable, for it is a well-known fact that during the long continued strife in the Netherlands when Spain was so determined to remain in control and the Netherlands were fighting for religious and political freedom, that families were frequently reduced to penury by the Crown confiscating all their property. And it requires not an unusual amount of imagination nor is it at all unreasonable to suppose that Cornelis Maessen was one of the descendants of a once opulent family, but whose fortunes had dwindled to the proportions of a "small farmer," and who had decided to try what the New World had in store. Subsequent events have proved beyond peradventure that our ancestor was far seeing and not an ignorant man.

Furthermore, it is well known that the great Patroon, Killian van Rensselaer, who, although he never visited his possessions in America did keep in close touch with the management of the same as it was conducted by his son, was especially careful as to the class of settlers upon his grants, intending to form the New Netherlands on the same solid basis as had so justly given strength and renown to the Old Netherlands. Many of the emigrants came armed with certificates of character from the pastors of their home churches.

The early records of the Colony have few instances of irregular or immoral conduct. The people were God-fearing, industrious and peace-loving; willing to endure the hardships consequent upon living in a new unsettled colony, devoid of the civilization of an old country, for the opportunity of furthering the principles of religious and political freedom as well as for the emoluments of toil, such as the acquiring of landed estates and of money. As before said, Killian van Rensselaer was especially particular as to the personnel of his party—selecting as far as possible young men and women, either married or single, having an eye to the future as well as the present.

One great difficulty confronts the historian or genealogist in attempting to write detailed accounts of early days. Few records were kept other than the church records and unfortunately those of Albany were not commenced until 1683, and furthermore when the first fire at the Capitol occurred in the eighteenth century many records were lost, and at the late fire still others. Also those early records are all in Dutch and there are few now living able to translate them.

Dr. van Laer, as already stated, has translated many of the Van Rensselaer mss. and these have been especially fruitful in information relating to the original Ancestor, Cornelis Maessen. According to these documents, Cornelis Maessen Van Bruyen or Burjmalsen, or Buurmalsen, or Burren or Buren, as it is variously spelled, was one of the party who sailed for the New World on the ship Eendracht in 1631. He came from the Province of Gelderland, from the small place called Burmalsen, near the town of Buren, a few miles from the Rhine. As before stated, patronymic names were not used among either the English or Dutch settlers, but about 1664 the English commenced to use them and the Dutch soon adopted them. Cornelis signed himself Cornelis Maessen, meaning son of Maes, but who Maes was, no records reveal. As Marten, the son of Cornelis, was the first to use the surname of van Buren, it has been assumed that this is proof of Cornelis having been born at or near Buren.

To quote from the translation of the Rensselaer Bowier MSS.: "May 27, 1631, a number of persons, among whom was Cornelis Maesen van Buurmalsen, signed an agreement for three years to Killian van Rensselaer estates for services thereon—to be paid 1st year Sixty pounds, 2nd year Seventy pounds, 3rd year Eighty pounds, and in hand Twelve pounds in advance. He was listed among the passengers on ship d'Eendracht in July, 1631.

Aug. 12, 1662, Hendrick Cornelisen Maessen and Marten Cornelisz Maessen, brothers, for themselves and for Maes Cornelisen Maessen, Styntie Cornelise Maessen and Tobias Cornelissen Maessen, their minor brothers and sister, all living in the Colony of Rensselaerswyck and children of the late Cornelis Maessen and Catalyntji Martense, who died in this country, and formerly lived at Bueren Malsen in Gelderland, executed a power of Attorney to Gerrit Cornelissen living at Tricht in Gelderland to receive an inheritance left by their uncle, Hendrick Maessen, who died at Cuij-Ontorch.

On this same day (Aug. 12, 1662), Jan Verbeeck, formerly councillor of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, and Cornelis Theuenissen Bos, formerly a magistrate of Fort Orange (Albany) and the village of Beverwyck, made a joint affidavit that Cornelis Maessen and his wife had died about 14 years ago and were both buried on the same day, leaving the aforesaid five children, over whom the said Cornelis Theunisz Bos, and Theunis Direxsz (Van'Vechten) inhabitants of the Colony, have thus far been guardians. Cornelis Theuniz Bos further states that he came to this country in 1636 in the ship Rensselaerwyck in the services of the said Cornelis Maessen and that he served him six years; also that the said Hendrick Cornelisz Maessen was born on the said ship and that the other children were born in this country."

"Entries for supplies furnished to Cornelis Maessen in August 16, 1634, show that he was in the Colony at that time." "He evidently returned to Holland at the expiration of his three years contract, married there and then came back to this country in 1636." "His second son, Marten Corneliez has been confused by some with 'Swarte or Black Marten Corneliszn (van Jsselstyne).'"

"Cornelis Theunisz Bos is the same Cornelis Teunissen van Westbroeck, who is first found in Acct. books of the date of April 8, 1637, almost immediately after arrival of the ship Rensselaerwyck."

"In a letter from Killian van Rensslaer to Jacob Planck, his Agent in the New Netherlands he writes as follows: These two farmers, who have been very helpful to me, viz., Cornelis Maessen, and Symon Walrichs, you will give a fair choice of the men who are coming but in such a way that they do not select all the best men, for others must have something too. You will provide them with as many animals as can be supplied from the increase of the others, and in case they should want to settle on Paepzickens land, which I think has not yet been bought, make every effort to purchase the same or at best to cause the farmers to be established there with the consent of the owners." "Later he frequently refers his Agent to observe the same rules regarding selling or leasing land as was embodied in the contracts of Cornelis Maessen and Symon Walricks, dated Aug. 15, 1636, in Amsterdam, which had resulted well to both sides."

"In a letter dated Aug. 4, 1639, from Killian van Rensselaer to Arendtt van Curler, he refers to the house of Cornelis Maessen which was being built." "In a letter of June 16, 1640, he authorizes Arundtt van Curler to secure the assistance of various persons among whom he mentions Cornelis Maessen van Buymalsen, to provide other farmers for the farms on which the farmers refuse to accept the terms of his previous Agent, and to control all by the rules and ordinances and to obey him as Lord and Master (Killian van Rensselaer), which obligations began with the arrival of Cornelis Maessen and Symon Walricks, agreeable to their contracts of Aug. 15, 1636, in Amsterdam."

"Willem Meynten (Meijntten, Mijnten, or Menten, variously spelled) served as a farm laborer under Cornelis Maessen for six years from Aug. 14, 1638, at wages ranging from Forty pounds to Sixty pounds a year." "Jacob Aertaz (Arentsz) is charged in the accts. as servant of Cornelis Maessen."

"Jan Reyersz served Cornelis Maessen one and three quarters years." The quotations from the van Rensselaer Bowier MSS. show plainly that Cornelis was not a mere ignorant peasant, but a small farmer of intelligence, integrity and determination to secure for himself and family the best possible in the New Netherlands, and it likewise reveals that his ability had won him recognition from the Patroon and commendation of no ordinary amount.

The Patroon made liberal terms with his farmers, requiring a tenth of the produce of the farm. In 1644 it is recorded that Cornelis paid the Patroon one hundred bushels of wheat, oats and rye, beside a few peas, showing his thrift had been rewarded by a yield of about one thousand bushels.

Apparently, the career of Cornelis was rather uneventful: he tilled his farm, and saved some, for it is recorded that he purchased a piece of property in Manhattan described as follows:—"A house and plantation at the North River on the Island of Manhattan, next to Wouter van Twiller and Thomas Hall." This farm was purchased of Volckert Evertsen, October 24, 1646, and afterwards sold by Cornelis Teunissen (Bos) and Teunis Dickson (Van Veecten) who were appointed trustees of his estate to the Hon. Rutger Jacobson, a magistrate of Beverwyck (Albany) for fifteen hundred guilders or about six hundred dollars. It was located between the present Christopher and Fourteenth Streets with boundaries near to those streets and doubtless having a North River frontage.

Wouter van Twiller was a few years before Governor of the Province of New Netherlands and Hall was a prominent merchant of New Amsterdam.

As already stated, Cornelis and his wife Catalyntje Martense, both died and were buried the same day at their farm at Papeknee, some time in 1648. Their effects were sold at auction Shrove Tuesday, 1649. It is doubtless due to their early and perhaps sudden deaths that the little that has been recorded has been preserved, for which those of this later day have reason to be grateful. Cornelis evidently died intestate, as Teunissen Dircksen (van Veecten) and Cornelis Teunessen (Bos) were the guardians and were appointed also trustees for the estate as there were minor children. Cornelis Teunissen Bos later became a trader and at one time was commissary at Fort Orange (Albany).

CORNELIS MAESSEN¹ VAN BUREN,

b. —; m. 1635 or 1636; d. 1648. His wife, Catalyntje Martense, b. —; d. 1648.

Children:

- +2 Hendrick Cornelissen,* b. June 30, 1637; m. Elizabeth van Slyck (Chapter 2).
- +3 Marten Cornelissen,* b. 1640 (?); d. Nov. 13, 1703; m. 1662 (?) Maritjie Quackenbosch (Chapter 3).

* Hereafter in these records the affix "sen" and "se" to these names is omitted, except in the headings of chapters and quotations.

- +4 Maas Cornelissen,* b. 1643(?); d. Nov. 27, 1704; m. 1682 or 1683, Josine Janse Gardiner (Chapter 4).
- +5 Styntji Cornelisse* (Christina), b. 1645 (?); d. Nov. 26, 1729; m. 1665, Dirck Wesselsen Ten Broeck.
- +6 Tobias Cornelissen,* b. 1647 (?).

* See note on page 28.

NOTE. In Holland the prefix van is spelled with a small "v" and in this country the early settlers used the small "v" also, but gradually the custom of using the capital "V," came into vogue, until at present almost all the families which have the prefix van use the form Van, hence the author has adopted the customary method and the prefix will be spelled Van, although van is correct.

SECOND GENERATION.

STYNTJI CORNELISSE (CHRISTINA)^s VAN BUREN,

was the fourth child of Cornelis and Catalyntji, b. 1645 (?);
d. Nov. 26, 1729; m. 1665, Dirk Wesselsen (Ten Broeck).

Dirk Wesselsen Ten Broeck became a very prominent man in the early history of Albany. He was Recorder under the Charter of 1686. He was Mayor from 1696 to 1698. He was Major of Col. Pieter Schuyler's regiment in 1700. In 1663 Dirk Wesselsen (Ten Broeck) purchased of the heirs of the renowned Anneke Jans Bogardas her home in Albany, from which she had been buried earlier in the same year. In his Will, made Feb. 4, 1715, probated Feb. 6, 1718, he mentions his wife, Christina, and children as follows:—

Children:

Wessel.

Samuel, m. Maria Van Rensselaer.

Johannes.

Tobias.

Elsje as wife of Johannes Cuyler.

Catalyntje, as wife of Johannes Lissier.

Cornelia, as wife of Wynkoop (Johannes).

Elizabeth, as wife of Anthony Costers.

Lidia, as wife of Volckert van Veckten.

Geertruy, as wife of Abraham Schuyler.

Christina, as wife of Johannes Van Alen.

was the fifth child of Cornelis and Catalyntji.

If he married he seems to have had no issue and there are no records relating to him after 1662, hence it is supposed he died while a mere youth.

Hendrick Cornelissen² Van Buren (2)

And his Descendants

SECOND GENERATION.

HENDRICK CORNELISSEN² VAN BUREN, Cornelis,¹

b. Jan. 30, 1637; d. —; m. Elizabeth van Slyck. Hendrick was b. on board ship Rensselaerwyck at 2 a. m. according to the log of the ship as translated by Dr. van Laer. Not much is known about him, but he remained in the neighborhood of the paternal home. He became a rich farmer. He and wife were devout members of the Dutch Reformed Church at Albany in 1683. During the Indian outbreak of 1663 he proved himself a brave soldier.

Children:

- 7 Gerritie, m. about 1684, Jacob Jacobsen Schermerhorn.
- +8 Maas, d. April 12, 1734; m. 1st Sept. 17, 1699, Ariantji van Weye; m. 2nd 1711, Magdalena Bogard.
- 9 Marritji, m. March 21, 1695, Cornelis Jacobsen Schermerhorn.
- +10 Cornelis, m. Jan. 27, 1703, Hendrickji van Ness.
- +11 Pieter, m. May 20, 1708, Gurtruy Vosburgh.

THIRD GENERATION.

8

MAAS^a VAN BUREN, Hendrick,² Cornelis,¹

b. —; d. April 12, 1734; m. 1st Sept. 17, 1699, Ariaantje van Weye; m. 2nd 1711, Magdalena Bogard.

Ariaantje van Weye (Van Wie or Wye) is supposed to have been the daughter of Hendrick Gerretse of Beverwyck from 1654 to 1691. In his will made 1690 he speaks of his wife and a son Gerret. He died about 1691 from wounds received on an expedition to Canada. (Munsell's Albany Collections.)

But little is known about Maas. He was a Freeholder at Rensselaerwyck in 1720. He was buried at Schodack, Apr. 14, 1734. His will was dated April 7, 1733, and probated June 1, 1733, which reads as follows:

In the name of God amen, the Seventh day of April in the Year of our Lord, Jesus Christ, 1733, I, Maas Van Buren, of the County of Albany, in the province of N. Y., yoeman being very sick and weak in body, but of perfect mind and memory, thanks be given unto God. Therefore, calling unto mind the mortality of my body and knowing it is appointed for all men once to die, I make and ordain this my last will and testament, that is to say principally and first of all I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God that gave it and for my body I recommend it to the Earth to be buried in a Christian-like and decent manner at the discretion of my wife and children, nothing doubting but at the general resurrection I shall receive the same again by the mighty power of God and as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me in this world I give and dispose of the same in the following manner and form.

It is my will and I do order that in the first place all my just debts and funeral charges be paid and satisfied.

It is my will and I do order and bequeath unto my eldest son, Hendrick Van Buren, ten shillings current money of the province of New York to be paid out of my estate for his right of primogeniture.

I give and devise to my son Hendrick Van Buren and to his heirs and assigns all my one equal half of the land called Muss Mans Island, which lies over against where Wouter Barheyt now lives.

I give and devise to my second son, Johannis Van Buren, and to his heirs and assigns all the land or farm where I now live, lying on both sides of Stalties Kill, running northward along the Kill about 400 paces; southward along the Kill till it comes to a place called the Steen Clove, both north and south ends extending westerly to Hudsons river as also another piece of land belonging to my farm on the south side of said Kill upon the hill containing about twelve morgans, another piece of land on the north side of said Kill upon the hills containing about thirty morgans. (A morgan is an acre.)

It is my Will and I do order that my negro man and negro wenches remain upon my farm one year after my decease or in case my daughter Callyntia marries within the year, to be divided upon her marriage or expiration of the year which first falls out as is hereafter directed.

I give and bequeath to my two sons, Hendrick Van Buren and Johannes Van Buren my negro man called Jack and my negro wench called Saar to them their heirs and assigns.

I do give and bequeath to my daughter Callyntie Van Buren her heirs and assigns my negro girl called Dian.

It is my will that my negro girl Dian remain with her mother ten years from this time, at the expiration of which term of years she is to be disposed of by my two sons, Hendrick and Johannes and my daughter Callyntia, as they can agree, but in case any of the negro slaves bequeathed to them as above, shall happen to die within the ten years, then he or she that sustains that loss, shall have the negro girl Dian without paying any consideration to the other two or either of them.

I do give and bequeath to my daughter, Callyntia Van Buren, Ninety pounds current money of the province of New York and to her heirs and assigns to be paid by my two sons, Hendrick and Johannes, or their heirs, that is to pay ten pounds, current money aforesaid every year till the whole sum of Ninety pounds be completed beginning the first payment one year after my decease.

I do give and bequeath to my said daughter, Callyntia, a mare and a cow which mare she is to have her choice of out of my stock of mares.

I do give and bequeath to my son Johannis Van Buren a cow.

I do give and bequeath to my sons, Hendrick and Johannes, and to my daughter Callyntia and to their heirs and assigns all my horses, cows, sheep and hogs, young and old, except what is above disposed of, to be equally divided among them in three equal parts.

It is my will and I do order that my son Hendrick and my daughter Callyntia, shall have each one-fourth part of the apples out of my orchard belonging to the land devised to my son, Johannes Van Buren, for seven years after my decease.

It is my will and I do order that my son Johannis Van Buren shall give to my daughter Callyntia sufficient diet and lodging until she be married.

I do give and bequeath to my beloved wife, Magdalena Van Buren, four pounds current money of the province of New York to be paid to her yearly by my two sons Hendrick and Johannes or their heirs or assigns during all the days of her life or so long as she remains my widow.

It is my will and I do order my two sons, Hendrick and Johannis, or their heirs shall provide my said wife, Magdalena, with sufficient diet and lodging all the days of her life or so long as she remains my widow and in case she dies my widow, they shall give her Christian-like and decent burial.

I give and bequeath all my household goods, furniture to my wife, Magdalena Van Buren, and to my daughter Callyntia Van Buren, except my great pott which I gave to my sons, Hendrick and Johannes whom I likewise constitute, make and ordain executors of this my last will and testament and I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke and disannul all and every other former testament, wills, legacies, and executors, by me in any wise before this time, named, willed and bequeathed and ratifying this and no other to be my last will and testament, in witness whereof I have set my hand and seal to the two sheets which contain this my will and testament the day and year first above written.

various children. The abstract of the Will is as follows:

WILL OF MAAS.

In the name of God, Amen, I, Maas van Beuren, of the East
District of the Manor of Renselaerwyke, Albany County, Gentlemen, being weak in body, I leave to my true and loving wife, Cattaline, so long as my widow all my estate, she making no waste or running it in debt, and after that period I bequeath to my son, Johanis, my two negroes, Sam and Jack, and my silver cup. I devise to my daughter Itie, one-third of the remainder of my estate, to my daughter Catherine, one-third and to my daughter Aarijaentie one-third. I give my wife Catalina in case she should come to marry, one bedstead, bed and appurtenances complete, and all her clothing. I appoint my loving friend, Jocham Staats of Albany and my son Johanis executors.

Dated Oct. 2, 1783, Witnesses David McCarty, John H. Beekman, Wm. Harrison (the last two farmers).

Codicil: I, Maas Van Beuren, this 4th day of October, 1783, do make this codicil.

I leave to my son Johanis my three bedsteads, beds, etc., three large tables, three cooking glasses, chairs, "handjrons" and all my household furniture, and my own wearing apparel, it being part of the personal estate bequeathed to my daughter.

Witnesses: Eyché Van Buren, of East District of the Manor of Rensselaerwyck; David McCarty. Proved, Albany County, May 10, 1784; confirmed, New York, August 28, 1784.

CHAPTER III

Marten Cornelissen² Van Buren (3)

And his Descendants

SECOND GENERATION.

MARTEN CORNELISSEN² VAN BUREN, second son of Cornelis and Catalyntje Martense.

Much more is known about this son, and the descendants form a large and prominent portion of the history of New York State, especially the counties of Albany, Columbia, Fulton and New York.

The Van Rensselaers owned a grant of 700,000 acres—of which 170,000 acres were located in that portion of Albany Co., which, on April 4, 1786, became known as Columbia Co., in which county many of the descendants of Marten were among the early settlers and where there are to-day a number of well-known and honored representatives. Kinderhook was one of the first settlements in Columbia Co.—it was about 1650 when the Pioneers appeared there. In 1663 there were only fifteen houses. The first saw mill was erected in 1665. The first Dutch School in 1700, first English School in 1778. The Dutch Reformed Church was organized in 1712, and among its earliest members were the names of three grand sons of Marten Cornelissen.

Marten was born in 1638 or 9—died November 13th, 1703. Married Marytjie Quackenbosch about 1662.

She is supposed to have been the daughter of Pieter and Marytje Quackenbosch.

Marten owned a house, barn, etc., in Bethlehem, Albany Co., in 1662, when he sold it to Cornelissen Van den Burg.

In 1665 or 75 (as authorities differ) he owned one-half of Constapels Island, a short distance below Albany in the Hudson River. He and wife were members of the Dutch Reformed Church at Albany prior to 1683. December, 1683, he paid the Church for the use of the "large pall," indicating he had buried some adult member of his family.

In 1697 the census credits his family as "two men, no women, one child."

In 1693 (May 7th) he married a second time—Tanneke Adams—widow of Pieter Pieterse Winne; hence it is presumed the large pall was used for the burial of his first wife.

In 1700 he was Captain in Colonel Pieter Schuyler's regiment at Albany.

In 1703, April 10, he made his will in Dutch. It was proved June 7, 1710. (The Will follows).

Children:

TRANSLATION OF THE WILL OF MARTEN CORNELISSEN
VAN BEUREN.

Be it known to all men by these presents that I, underwritten Marten Cornelius Van Beuren, Yeoman and inhabitant of the Manor of Renselaewyk, in the County of Albany, being sound of body, and having the exercise of his understanding, memory and speech, taking into consideration the frailty of this present life, the certainty of death and uncertain hour thereof: Being willing to dispose of his temporal goods, first recommending his soul to the hands of his Gracious God, his Creator and Saviour, and his mortal body to Christian burial. Making void and annulling all former Testamentary dispositions, and do make and confirm this to be my last will in the form following.

First, I appoint to my only and universal heirs all my children and my grandchild (to wit), Cornelia Martense Van Beuren, the wife of Robert Van Deusen, Peter Martense Van Beuren, Martin Martense Van Beuren, Maria Martense Van Beuren, Janse Magdalena Martense Van Beuren and Tobias Cornelius Van Beuren, and that of all my goods which I shall have, real or personal, lands, houses, oxen, cows, horses, utensils, beds, bolsters, household stuff, money, gold, silver, whether coined or not, nothing in the world excepted. It is furthermore my will and desire that after my decease my son Peter before mentioned shall have over and above the rest and before division is made six morgans of the great piece of meadow as also that lot of woodland which is divided with the partner, Peter Vosburgh, Ian Tysen and Van Alen, being northerly without the fence of the land called the great piece in consideration of any privilege of being now my eldest son. It is furthermore my will and desire that my son's son, Tobias Cornelius, aforesaid, shall have before division is made in consideration of privilege which he might pretend to by virtue of his deceased father's privilege as being my eldest son, a horse with a saddle and bridle. It is further my will and desire that my daughter Magdalena shall have before division is made her outset as her other sisters have had as also the sum of nine pounds, current money of this province, and furthermore that my whole estate as it shall then be found and when the debts shall be paid shall be divided equally among them, with the reserve that my son Peter aforesaid and my daughter Cornelia, the wife of Robert Van Deusen, shall have the preference of my lands situate at Kinderhook with the house, barn, barracks and all whatsoever is therein, depending, derived to me from Derick Wepesi. That which I, as aforementioned, have first given to my son Peter only excepted and that it shall then be appraised by four impartial men, chosen for that purpose by impartial persons, and that Peter and Cornelia shall pay for that appraisement in six ensuing years an equal sixth part every year in order to be divided in equal shares among them. It is the testator's further will and desire that his son Marten as aforesaid shall have for himself and his heirs forever the half Island with all its rights depending thereon as the house, barn, barracks also at present in possession of the testator providing he shall pay for the same in six succeeding years after the decease of the testator one hundred and sixty-five pounds current money of this province, I say one hundred and sixty-five pounds, to each of them an equal sixth thereto be divided among them in equal shares. And I appoint for executors and administrators my sons Peter and Marten aforesaid, together with Mr. Albert Rykman and Mr. Derick Wepesi, that this my last will and testament may be observed in all its parts, all the above written the testator declares to be his last will devising that after his decease it may in all its parts be observed and maintained in all Courts of Law and Equity. Thus the testator has subscribed and sealed this with his hand in the Manor of Renselaewick at the house of Captain Gerret Tennips this tenth day of April in the second year of our Sovereign Queen Ann of England and Scotland, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, A.D. 1703, signed and sealed in the presence of

THIRD GENERATION.

CORNELIS^s VAN BUREN, Marten,^s Cornelis,^s

b. 1663, d. some time before 1693, m. Sept. 22, 1689, Ariaantji Gerretse (Van den Bergh).

It is recorded that his widow married in June 28, 1693, Coenradd von Elmendorf, of Kingston, where it is presumed they lived. She d. in 1704. He was a son of Jacobus Coenraddt Van Elmendorf, the first settler of that name in Ulster County, N. Y. He m. at Kingston, Jan. 28, 1668, Grietje Aartse van Waggoner, of Utrecht, Holland.

Children:

+163 Tobias, bap. Aug. 3, 1690, at Albany; sps., Marten Jacobus, Albert Rykman; m. Dec. 15, 1712, Helena Bogardus, of Kingston, where she had been born.

CORNELIA MARTENSE^s VAN BUREN, Marten,^s Cornelis,^s

was b. about 1665; m. Sept. 22, 1689, Robert (Teuwisse) Van Deusen, son of Teuwise (Matheus) Abrahamsen and Helena (Roberts) Van Deusen; b. about 1665. In 1720 he was in Claverack.

Children, bap. at Albany:

164 Johannes Van Deusen, bap. July 13, 1690; sps. Marretje Martens, Marten Cornelis and Teuwise Abrahams; m. Aug. 26, 1712, Christiana Van Alen.

165 Matheus Van Deusen, bap. Nov. 1, 1691; sps. Pieter Martens, Cateletje Jacobs. He was living in 1748-9.

- 166 Marten Van Deusen, bap. Feb. 21, 1694; spa. Rut Melcherts (Van Deusen), Cateletje Martens; m. (1) Dec. 25, 1719, Elbertje Vander Poel; m. (2) Feb. 19, 1744, Zara Gardinier, at Kinderhook, in the presence of Elder John Hoea.
- 167 Tobias Van Deusen, bap. Aug. 6, 1696; spa. Antoine Bries, Tryntje Bries; m. Mar. 21, 1725, Ariaantje Muller (Miller).
- 168 Robbert Van Deusen, bap. Sept. 1, 1700; spa. Marten and Marrytje van Beuren; m. Nov. 22, 1724, Christiana Roorpagh (Roorbach).

PIETER^s VAN BUREN, Marten,^s Cornelis,^s

b. 1670, d. Nov. 24, 1755 (?); m. Jan. 15, 1693, Ariaantji Barentse, supposed to be daughter of Barent Meinderts and Eytie his wife.

In 1695 this couple were admitted to the membership of the Dutch Church at Albany as from Kinderhook, where it is supposed they had settled at their marriage. It appears they occupied a farm adjoining the one of Pieter Vosburg, whose wife was Jannetji, the sister of Ariaantje Barentse.

In the census of 1697 Pieter Martensen was mentioned with wife and three children.

In 1720 he was a freeholder in Kinderhook.

In 1743 his four sons were mentioned as free holders, but he is not mentioned, hence it is supposed he had died. Although by some authorities the Pieter who died in 1755 is supposed to be he. No Will has ever been found, but as his children were baptized in the Dutch Church at Albany, those records which remain from 1683 are of great value.

From the fact that at least three of his sons became active members of the Dutch Church at Kinderhook, it is evident he had instructed them and set them an example worthy of their ancestors.

Children :

- +169 Cornelis, bap. May 4, 1693; sps. Cornelis Hendricksz, Marte Martensz, Ariaatje Gerrits; m. Sept. 8, 1724, Maria Litner or Lister.

Children:

- 319 Leonard Bronk, m. —.

b. at Kinderhook, N. Y., on Nov. 16, 1728, was the fourth child of Barent Van Buren and Maria Winne. For more than sixty years he lived in the vicinity of Kinderhook, where he was engaged in farming. By the will of his father, made in 1769, he received a farm on the Klyne Kill in the said town.

On Sept. 30, 1761, he was married at Claverack, N. Y., by the Rev. J. Fryenmoet, pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church there to Johanna Van Slyck, who was born Oct. 23, 1736. The church record shows that the marriage license was granted by the Hon. Cadwallader Colden, then Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of New York.

During the Revolution, Francis Van Buren served as a private in the Seventh Regiment of the Albany Co. militia in which Abraham Van Buren, father of the President, was a Captain.

In 1789 Francis Van Buren moved with his family to the township of Caughnawaga, Montgomery Co., settling on a farm of several hundred acres lying along the north side of Mayfield Creek in what is now the town of Mayfield, which was formed in 1793 from Caughnawaga. Later he divided his tract of land and gave a farm to each of his three sons. In 1793 a Reformed Dutch Church was organized in Mayfield and the Van Buren family was very active in this Church during its early history. The church records show that on April 26, 1800, Johanna Van Slyck, wife of Francis Van Buren, was received on confession, as were also Harmon F. Van Buren, the youngest son of this couple, and his wife Catharine Miller, while on December 17, 1796, Peter H. Van Buren, another son, and his wife, Elizabeth Upham, had become members. On Aug. 12, 1797, Peter H. was chosen a deacon.

In 1793 occurred the organization of the town of Mayfield, and the same year a Reformed Dutch Church was organized there. The first meeting house stood in the southern part of the village, on the present site of the cemetery, where it borders on the street and where many of the first settlers lie buried. The Van Buren family was active in this church, Barent being one of the first elders and Harmon F. a deacon. In 1826 this church society was dismissed from the classis of Montgomery and admitted to the Albany Presbytery as the Central Presbyterian Church of Mayfield, Barent Van Buren being sent at this time as a delegate to effect a change.

The records of this church show that on April 26, 1800, Johannah Van Slyck, wife of Francis Van Buren, was received into membership and that on Oct. 4, 1800, Lon, a servant of Francis Van Buren, became a member. He was a negro and a slave as were also his wife, Jane, and three children, Dick, Nan and Betsy, who were baptized Dec. 7, 1800. Another child of this negro couple was "Simon," born May 24, 1805. When slavery was abolished in New York State in 1827, this negro family must have taken the name of Van Dusen by which their descendants are now known. The first census of U. S. taken in 1790 shows that Francis Van Buren of the township of Caughnawaga, Montgomery Co., N. Y., was the owner of seven slaves.

Children, all born and baptized at Kinderhook:

- 320 Barent, bap. Sept. 28, 1762; sps. Barent and Marytje Van Buren; d. Feb. 20, 1763.

HARMAN⁶ VAN BUREN, Barent,⁶ Pieter,⁸ Marten,⁸ Cornelis,¹ was born in Kinderhook, N. Y., in 1736, and was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of that same village, Jan. 7, 1737. He married Eva, daughter of Pieter and Engeltje Van Slyck, June 10, 1763. The marriage record is recorded at Claverack, N. Y. Eva Van Slyck was baptized in the Dutch church at Kinderhook, N. Y., Sept. 29, 1734; died at Johnstown, N. Y., Apr. 6, 1803, in the 68th year of her age. Harman Van Buren's second wife was Mrs. Elizabeth Vee-der, whom he married July 16, 1804.

In the reprint of the census of 1790, N. Y. State, Harman Van Buren was a resident of Kinderhook, N. Y. His family is given as two sons over 16 years of age, one son under 16, two daughters and six slaves. Harmon Van Buren was a man of influence and wealth, as riches were estimated in those days. In 1792 a deed of 500 acres in lot 22, Sacandaga Patent is recorded in the County Clerk's Office, Johnstown, N. Y., to Harman Van Buren, showing that he was at that time a resident of Caughnawaga, which then included Johnstown, Mayfield and Broadalbin. He also bought a large tract of land lying south of the Mayfield Creek, now known as Munsonville, where he lived up to the time of his death. Harman Van Buren was buried on this farm. Old residents of the street some years ago pointed out the field where the Van Buren stones formerly were. This field is situated on a rise of ground partly surrounded by woods, but all is now under cultivation and no trace is left to indicate the last resting-place of Harman Van Buren. The records of the Presbyterian Church at Mayfield show that on Oct. 4, 1800, Harman Van Buren and his wife Eva Van Slyck were received into membership in the church, by letter from the Dutch Reformed Church at Kinderhook, N. Y.

Harman Van Buren was a soldier in the Revolutionary war and served as Major in Colonel Abraham J. Van Alstine's regiment of Albany Co. Militia in the service at different times. In the family annals it is related that at one time Major Harman Van Buren was wounded in an engagement. When news of this reached his wife, she immediately exclaimed, "I hope he was not shot in the back." Major Van Buren lived to return home bringing with him an honorable record of service to his country. He died in 1819. His will was probated Nov. 4, 1819.

The following is a copy of that instrument:—

In the name of God, Amen. I, Harman Van Buren of the town of Mayfield, County of Montgomery, and State of New York, being weak in body but sound and perfect mind and memory, Blessed be Almighty God for the same, do make and publish this my last will and testament in manner and former following that is to say. First, I give and bequeath to my son, Barent Van Buren, a certain piece of land beginning at two white pine trees marked with the letter H and from thence westerly to Peter McNab's fence, thence along the said fence to the line of lot No. 23, thence westerly along said line and the small creek or run of water, thence southerly along said creek to a certain bridge lying across said creek, thence easterly along the road that leads from the meadows to the Sacon Road to the place of beginning. Also one other piece beginning at a large white pine tree on the west side of the road that leads from the meadows to the Sacondaga Road, from thence northerly along said road to a white ash stump, thence west to the little creek, thence along the said creek southerly to a white pine tree on the west side of said creek marked H, from thence easterly to the place of beginning.

To him my said eldest son the above described pieces of land to him, his heirs and assigns forever.

I also give and bequeath to my son, Francis H. Van Buren, all the residue of my freehold estate lying in lot No. 22 in Sacandaga patent to him the said Francis H. Van Buren, his heirs and assigns forever.

I also give and bequeath to my son, Francis H. Van Buren, all my farming Yutensels together with all my horses or horsekine.

Also I give and bequeath to my beloved wife, Elizabeth, three cows and two calves and nine sheep and the remainder of my meat chattel I give to my said son Francis H. Van Buren. I also further give to my beloved wife, Elizabeth, the best room in my dwelling house to her own choice to be kept in good repair and order convenient and comfortable for winter and summer and I also give and allow to my said wife Elizabeth two fatted hogs and a part of a beefe, not less than a quarter of a fatted beefe yearly and every year as long as she lives or remains my widow, and further I will and order my said son, Francis H. Van Buren, shall keep the said room in good repair, and furnish my said wife with sufficient quantity of firewood for winter and summer for her room and make her fires, when thereunto required and supply her with every necessary as above stated and every other necessary thing both of food and clothing which my said wife may stand in need of. And also I will and order that my said son, Francis, shall carry or order to be carried my said wife, Elizabeth, on a visit to every place in a convenient carriage either in summer or winter as the case shall require. Also I will and bequeath unto my son, Francis, my negro boy, Cap, to him, his heirs and assigns forever. And also I give to my said wife, Elizabeth, my negro wench, Pana, during the life of my said wife, Elizabeth; also I will and order my said son, Francis H. Van Buren, to pay or cause to be paid all my honest debts. I also give and bequeath to my son, Francis, one feather bed. I also give and bequeath to my daughter, Mariah Easton, my negro girl, Bet, and my negro boy, Leer, to her and her heirs and assigns forever. And I also give and bequeath to my said daughter Mariah Easton one note, the amount of said note is two hundred and fifty dollars, against Ehimeas Easton, also I give to my said daughter all my household furniture after my wife Elizabeth's decease. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the twentieth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seven. Signed, sealed, published and declared by the above named Harman Van Buren to be his last will and testament in the presence of us who have hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses in the presence of the testator Harman H. Van Buren.

CODICIL.

I, Harman Van Buren, of the town of Mayfield, County of Montgomery and State of New York, do this day make and publish this codicil to my last will and testament in manner and form following, that is to say I give and bequeath to my beloved wife, Elizabeth, the sum of three hundred dollars, current money of these United States, and to her heirs and assigns forever to be paid to my said wife, by my son, Francis H. Van Buren, his heirs, executors, administrators or assigns to my said wife, Elizabeth, and I give and bequeath unto my said son, Francis, all my money which is or may become due to me by bond, note or accounts or otherwise to him, his heirs and assigns forever and lastly it is my desire that this my present codicil be annexed to and be made a part of my will and testament to all intents and purposes. In witness I have hereunto set my hand and seal this twenty-ninth day of May, year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred nineteen.

bap. at Albany Feb. 27, 1737; d. Apr. 8, 1817; m. about 1776, Maria Goes (Hoes), widow of Johannes Van Allen, who was bap. at Claverack Jan. 16, 1747; d. Feb. 16, 1817. Both are buried at Kinderhook, N. Y., the dates on the stones are indistinct. The inscription on his stone is as follows:

"Sacred to the memory of Capt. Abraham Van Buren, who died on the 8th day of April, A.D. 1817, in the 81st year of his age. He was tender of and indulgent to his family, benevolent and charitable to all around him and moreover a good man whose upright heart, mild temper and conciliatory manners secured to him what he liked best to reciprocate—the good will and friendship of all. He died in full reliance upon the grace of God through the mediatory sacrifice of Christ for his salvation."

The inscription on her tombstone is as follows:

"Sacred to the memory of Mrs. Mary Van Buren, relict of the late Capt. Abraham Van Buren. She died on the 16th day of Feb., 1818, in the 71st year of her age. Her long life was adorned by domestic virtues of the most useful kind. The early profession of the religion of the crucified Jesus which she made she sustained to the end with that undeviating fidelity which proved its foundation to have been laid in the heart. And her life and her conversation characterized her piety by bringing forth abundantly fruit meet for repentance." (See also history of the Hoes family.)

He owned a small farm in the town of Kinderhook on which they lived. The house, an unpretentious one, was also used as a tavern. Here it was that he brought the widow Van Alen as his bride. He became a Captain in the 7th Regiment of the Albany County Militia. Isaac Goes or Hoes, a relative of his wife, was a Major in the same regiment.

Children, bap. at Kinderhook:

- +358 Dirckie or Derike, bap. 1777; d. Oct. 18, 1865; m. Mar. 15, 1806, Barent Hoes, son of John Dirck Hoes and Maria Quackenbosch, his wife.

Fisher. (See Hogeboom history.) He was Surrogate of Columbia County when he died. His tomb stone reads as follows: "In memory of Abraham Van Buren, who died at Hudson, Oct. 30, 1836, in the 49th year of his age. He had been for many years and was at the time of his death, Surrogate of Columbia County, and by his talents and integrity secured universal respect and esteem."

REV. PETER^o VAN BUREN, Ephraim,^o Cornelis,^o Pieter,^o Marten,^o Cornelis,¹

b. Apr. 14, 1773; d. Mar. 13, 1828; m. Mar. 27, 1798, Abigail Mudge, dau. of Jarvis and Prudence Mudge; she was b. in New Lebanon, N. Y.; died at Nassau, N. Y.

While he was a student at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., his wife, Abigail, taught school to help out financially; evidently her labors were crowned with success, as one of her descendants, Paul G. Burton of Baltimore, (lately of Washington, D. C.), writes me that he has a silver tea set which she purchased with some of her teaching money.

After Peter graduated from Union College they removed to Charleston, Montgomery County, N. Y. Later to Chatham, Columbia County, and then to Troy, N. Y. In each of these places he was settled as a minister.

The most remarkable event chronicled of this couple is the fact of the birth of triplets on Jan. 19, 1819, all three sons. The Rev. Father wanted to give the names of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob to the infants, but as Jacob died when only eleven days old the names of the remaining two were afterwards changed.

(Mrs.) ADELAIDE BYRD WELLS-SWISHER
Daughter of Jacobus (437) and Nancy (Evans) Wells

(Mrs.) SÓPHIA ALICE WELLS-BROWN
Daughter of Jacobus (437) and Nancy (Evans) Wells

bap. at Kinderhook, July 22, 1764; d. at Mayfield, Feb. 19, 1850.

On Sept. 22, 1791, she was married to Abraham Wells, who was an original member of the Reformed Church at Mayfield upon its organization in 1793. In 1790 he was a resident of Cossackie, but must have moved to Mayfield the next year. He died at the latter place on July 22, 1826, aged 68 years. The Rev. Jeremiah Wood, who came to Mayfield in 1826 to begin his pastorate of half a century in the Presbyterian Church, was for some time before his marriage a boarder with the Wells family. "Aunt Anne Wells," as she was familiarly called, often told her grand nephews and nieces now living of her early life at Kinderhook and spoke of having many times rocked Martin Van Buren, the President, in his cradle when he was a babe. His parents were neighbors of Francis Van Buren, who was a first cousin of Captain Abraham Van Buren, Martin's father.

JOHANNES⁶ VAN BUREN, Pieter T.,⁵ Tobias,⁴ Pieter,³ Marten,² Cornelis,¹

b. at Kinderhook Nov. 12, 1758; m. (1) Catharine Van Valkenburg; m. (2) Feb. 6, 1790, Elizabeth Sharpe. Soon after his second marriage they moved from Kinderhook to Canada. Here they remained until 1796, when they came to Volney, N. Y., and settled on the East side of the river. This made the third settlement in Volney. The village and farms about here were all woodland; uninhabited except by Indians and the wild denizens of the forests. The British still held Oswego and a story is told that the British soldiers, while at a tavern kept by a Van Valkenburg, were cheering for King George, when John Van Buren answered with three cheers for Washington and for his patriotism being obliged to take to his horse. John passed his life in hard work, believing "it is better to wear out than rust out." He died June 11, 1821, and he was buried in the old burial ground North of Fulton.

Children by first wife:

- 533 Peter, bap. June 3, 1781, at Kinderhook, spa. Pieter Van Buren, Elbertje Van deusen; m. Elizabeth Althous and had nine children. Names unknown.

MARTIN^o VAN BUREN, Abraham,^o Marten,^o Pieter,^o Marten,^o Cornelis,¹

Bap. at Kinderhook Dec. 5, 1782; d. July 24, 1862; m. Feb. 21, 1807, Hannah Hoes, a kinswoman of his mother. She was born Mar. 8, 1783; d. Feb. 5, 1819, in Albany. They were married at Catskill, N. Y.

Numerous biographies of Martin Van Buren have been written and in fact the statement has been made that of all the Presidents until very recent years he had been the most written about. We are told he was an unusually good student, so that at the age of fourteen he was more advanced than lads of that age are usually. After leaving the school he commenced the study of law with Francis Sylvester of Kinderhook. Politics became a lifelong study and when only seventeen he was selected as a delegate to the Congressional Convention of his district. "Nature having endowed him with talents the boy with his studious disposition, stability of character and untiring perseverance became father of the man of state, the magistrate of a nation, honored and beloved in life and revered in memory."

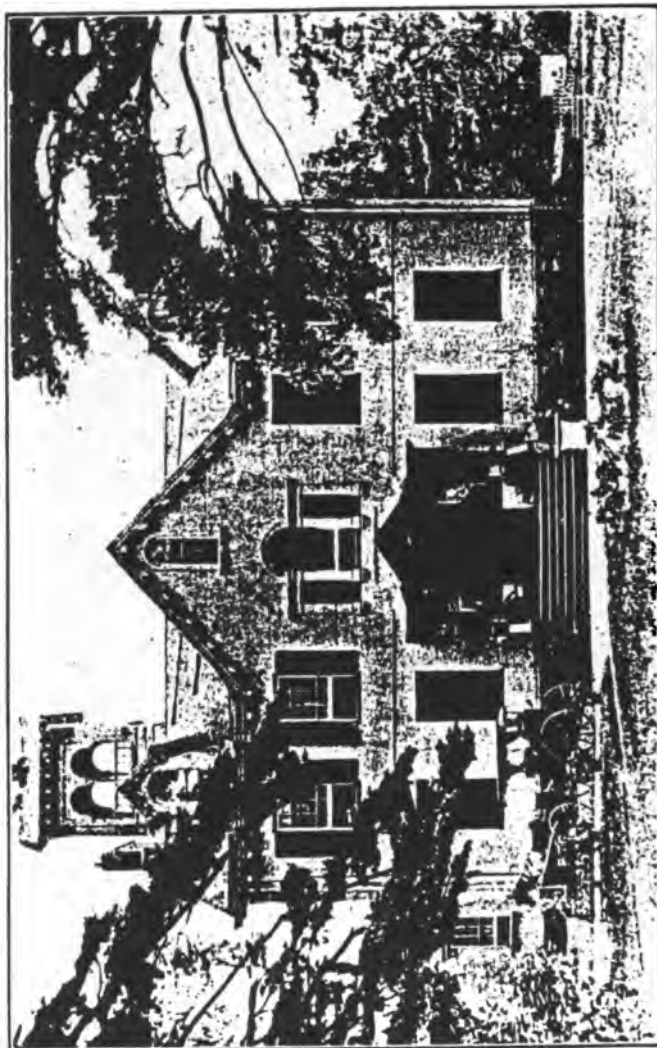

In 1802 he became a law student with Wm. P. Van Ness of New York. In 1803 he was admitted to the bar and entered into a partnership with James J. Van Allen of Kinderhook.

The X mark shows the room in which President Van Buren died

In 1807 he was admitted as a Counselor of the Supreme Court.

In 1808 he was appointed by Governor Tompkins as Surrogate for his county (Columbia) and served for five years. In 1812 he was elected a State Senator, where he represented his State for nine years; during a portion of these years (1815-1819) he also served as Attorney-General for the State. He was chosen to represent his State in the United States Senate in 1821. Again in 1827 the same honor was conferred upon him.

In January, 1829, he resigned, as he had been elected to the office of Governor of his State. He occupied this position but a brief time, as Andrew Jackson having recognized his abilities offered him the position of Secretary of State in his Cabinet. The following interesting letter from Van Buren to Jackson denotes the character of the man:

VAN BUREN TO JACKSON.

Albany, February 20th, 1829.

Sir,

Your favor of the 15th instant proposing to assign to me the Department of State in the administration about to be formed under your auspices was received yesterday. With an expression of my gratitude for the favorable opinion you have formed of me and the very flattering manner in which you have expressed it, I inform you that I accept your invitation with no other hesitation except such as is derived from a distrust of my fitness for the high station to which (you) have been pleased to call me. Allow me to assure you that the hope of being able to assist you in some small degree to realize the expectations of a people who, under the most trying circumstances, have evinced a degree of patriotism and fidelity that would do honor to the proudest days of the Republic, induces me to quit the elevated and truly honorable station conferred upon me by my immediate constituents associated as I shall, doubtless, be in your Cabinet with so great a portion of the intelligence and virtue of the country, and having constantly and only in view the success of your administration, I cannot doubt of our ability to fulfil the public expectation. My movements in regard to my repairing to the seat of Government will be entirely controlled by my new duties, and be subjected to no further delay than is strictly unavoidable of that character will be the necessity of exacting information of the confirmation of my appointment by the Senate. A moment's reflection, my dear Sir, will satisfy you that however desirable and agreeable it might be that I should be with you sooner, a different course would be subject to insurmountable objections. Although I am satisfied that the great body of my leading friends in this State look to the result that is about to take place, as probable, and will be prepared to approve it, there are thousands and tens of thousands who have never bestowed a thought upon the subject. With such particularly, and indeed in a quarter or less degree with all, the fact of my leaving so soon the station to which I have been raised by their favor in the midst of a busy and very interesting session of the Legislature, cannot fail to create a strong sensation. Unless it be done with the utmost propriety to go off without communicating with the Legislature, and leave the Government to devolve silently in the first instance upon the Lieutenant Governor would not do. The first direct notice that my constituents are to have of my intentions should be an address to the Legislature resigning my office, and assigning my reasons for doing so. In the discharge of that duty (which I am satisfied public opinion will require of me), it is due to the Senate of the United States that I should avoid the presumption of taking the confirmation of my nomination for granted.

Independently of the unpleasant reflections that an opposite course would give rise to in relation to me personally, and by which my future usefulness might be impaired, it is scarcely to be doubted that the appetites of your enemies for detraction would be in no small degree re-excited, and that we should be charged through their papers with disrespect towards the constitutional powers and other powers of the Government.

Hoping that my views upon this subject, thus hastily expressed will be satisfactory, I have only to add that no time will be lost upon the receipt of my appointment. The resignation and delivering over of what belongs to the office, will, of course, take a day or two, and I may want a very few days, too, and not to exceed a week in all, as I shall leave the fiscal arrangement of my domestic affairs for a period when it can be done under circumstances more consistent with the public service. My friend and aid, Col. Hamilton, of this State, is now with you, and will take the trouble to ascertain as far as that can properly be done how long a time may, without prejudice to the business of the office, be allowed to me to pack up, and upon conferring with you will communicate to me the result. Accept, Sir, the assurance of my great respect and kindest regards.—From the draft in the Van Buren Papers.

He served as Governor but two months and then assumed the responsibilities of the position of Secretary of State; during his third year he was appointed Minister to England. In 1832 he was elected Vice-President to Jackson for his second term. In 1836 he was elected President, the first son of New York State to be thus honored. His term of service extended from March 4th, 1837, for four years; at the expiration he was defeated for re-election. Varied have been the opinions of the various biographers of Martin Van Buren as to his political abilities, but one and all concede to him the attributes of an honorable, although sometimes an irascible man; one who exhibited to a marked degree many of the sterling traits of his Dutch ancestry. In his book entitled "Political Parties in the U. S.," one can learn much of his own character as well as the matter of which it treats.

Appended to this article are a number of letters written to or by him which also give the reader a clear insight into the character of Martin Van Buren. There are numerous amusing incidents told about him, as, for example, During Mr. Van Buren's mission to England it is said he attended one of the soirees of Queen Adelaide, at which, in a conversation with him, she inquired how far back he could trace his ancestry. "As far back as Kinderhook, may it please your Majesty," replied Mr. Van Buren with the grave urbanity so characteristic of him. Supposing the name to be that of some distinguished aboriginal chieftain, the fair descendant of a long line of German princes paid still greater deference to her guest.

After his election to the Presidency his townsmen gave him a memorable reception and serenade, to which he responded by appearing on the balcony of the house, where he had been born, and expressed his gratitude to his townsman.

Extract from President Van Buren's address at Kinderhook on July 20, 1839:

"I thank you all from the bottom of my heart for the complimentary and kind manner in which you have greeted my return to the place of my birth—the home of my relatives, and for more than a century and a half the burial place also of my ancestors; and that I place a very high value upon the approval which you have expressed upon my official conduct as President of the United States."

In 1841 he retired to a beautiful estate near Kinderhook which he called Lindenwald and he gathered about him a group of congenial souls. According to Emerson, "The ornament of a house is the friends who frequent it," and applying this test to Martin Van Buren we find him entertaining such men as Henry Clay, Thomas H. Benton, Silas Wright, Wm. L. Morey, Azariah C. Flagg, Charles Sumner, Francis P. Blair, Washington Irving and the Earl of Carlyle. It is related that during the visit of Thomas H. Benton at a dinner after the dessert that finger bowls were served and that he viewed them with suspicion and said to a neighbor "what a queer-looking drinking glass." Later he said to another guest, "I am rather chary of new customs, but after noticing Mr. Van Buren dip the tips of his fingers in the bowl and wipe them daintily on his napkin, I just raked back my cuffs and took a good plain Republican wash."

Washington Irving did a good deal of his literary work at Lindenwald; he wrote a large portion, if not all, of the "Knickerbocker History," "Rip Van Winkle," and gathered personal data for the "Legend of Sleepy Hollow." It is related that if the weather was cold President Van Buren would cover his head with a fur driving glove during church services.

Lindenwald has passed out of the family, but the old brass knocker was to be seen on the door up until a recent date, if not there still; it bore the date of 1797. Among other honors beside those of strictly political nature which he bore was that of being one of the Regents of the University of the State of New York. The years of 1853-1855 he spent in foreign travel, and it is related that while in Holland he was received in audience by the then King of Holland, and given a drawing of the Coat-of-Arms, which is the frontispiece of this book. These Arms are remembered by persons still living as having hung on the wall of the hall at Lindenwald, and one of the grandsons told one of his cousins of the incident and this cousin gave to the Editor a cut of the Arms.

WILL OF MARTIN VAN BUREN.

I, Martin Van Buren, of the town of Kinderhook, County of Columbia, and State of New York, heretofore Governor of the State and more recently President of the United States, but for the last and happiest years of my life a Farmer in my native town, do make and declare the following to be my last will and testament:

First, I direct my Executors hereafter named to pay without delay my funeral expenses and all outstanding bills. Debts in the ordinary acceptation of that term I owe none and hope to leave none.

Secondly, I direct that no amount shall be taken of account by me heretofore made to either of my sons and that they shall be considered as settled with the exception of a bond I hold against my son Abraham for two thousand dollars and also a note against my son John for four thousand eight hundred and fifteen dollars, which was agreed to be considered as business transaction strictly, the amount due on each at my death (the interest having been strictly paid to the present year) is to be charged to them respectively and deducted from their share of my estate. The like charge and deduction shall be made in respect to any future payments by me or by my estate in cases where I have made myself liable as surety for either of my sons, but in which nothing has yet been paid by me.

Thirdly, In consideration of advances which I have made to my sons Abraham and John whilst none have been made to my son Smith Thompson, I bequeath to the latter all my personal chattle and effects excepting therefrom all the debts that may be due to me and stocks that I may own at my death, and also my wine and stock on my farm. My miscellaneous library is intended to be included in this bequest, but not my law library, which I bequeath to my son John.

Fourthly, I give to my grandson, Singleton Van Buren, a gold snuff box presented to me with the Freedom of the City by the Corporation of the City of New York and to my grandson Martin, son of Abraham, the marble bust made of me by Powers, which I had previously presented to his mother and now transfer to the son by her direction. I give to my grandson, Martin, son of my son Smith Thompson, a silver pitcher presented to me some years since by my old and always sincere friend, Benjamin F. Butler.

Fifthly, I direct my executors to expend four hundred dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary in obtaining a copy of the bust of me by Power, which copy I give to my grandson Edward Livingston Van Buren.

Sixthly, I direct my Executors to pay out five hundred dollars for keepsakes for my grandson, Travis Van Buren, and for my granddaughters, Anna, Ellen, Catharine and Eliza Van Buren.

Seventhly, I request my executors to regard themselves as standing toward my best of sisters, Dirike Van Buren, if she shall survive me, in the relation I occupied when living and to omit nothing in the way of pecuniary advances that may contribute to her comfort out of my estate.

Eighthly, I direct my Executors to pay to my niece, Christina Cantine, two hundred dollars and to each of my nieces, Lucretia Van Buren and Jane Ann Van Buren, the sum of one hundred dollars, and I give and devise to my nephew, Martin Van Buren, son of my brother Lawrence and to his heirs and assigns forever all my interest in a small dwelling with the lot on which it stands adjoining his father's house conveyed to me by the latter as security for money lent, but the latter device is upon the condition that his father relieves me or my Estate from my remaining securityship to the State of New York.

Ninthly, I hereby appoint my three sons Abraham, John and Smith Thompson, executors of my last and only will; and I do hereby authorize and empower them or such of them as shall take upon themselves the execution thereof, and the survivors and survivor of them, to fulfill by the execution of conveyances and otherwise as may be proper, any Contracts for the sale of lands, made by me, which shall be outstanding at the time of my death.

Lastly, I hereby give, devise and bequeath to my three sons, Abraham, John and Smith Thompson, all the remainder and residue of my personal Estate not required for the purposes of my Will under the provisions above made, and all my real estate wheresoever situated, to be equally divided between them, to have and to hold their respective shares thereof to them, their heirs and assigns forever subject to the following conditions and reservations, viz: first, that out of the avails of the sale of Lindenwald there shall be reserved and paid over to my son, Smith Thompson, his heirs or assign the sum of seven thousand five hundred dollars in full satisfaction for his advance toward the expenses incurred by the addition to and improvements upon the dwelling house and outbuildings with the expectation that the place would be devised to him upon terms that would be equitable in respect to his brothers, the payment to be without interest during my life time. Secondly, that upon the sale of Lindenwald, the preference shall be offered in succession to my sons, beginning for the reason above assigned and no other, with the youngest, if the son accepting the same is willing to pay therefor as much as the place can be sold for in the market.

The three pieces of plate last presented to me by my deceased friend, Benjamin F. Butler, I bequeath to my three sons, Abraham, John and Smith Thompson, to be equally divided between them.

In witness whereof I have to this instrument set my hand and seal this eighteenth day of January, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and sixty.

M. VAN BUREN (seal).

Subscribed, sealed, published and declared by the said Martin Van Buren to be his last will and testament in the presence of us the undersigned who at his request and in his presence and in the presence of each other have hereunto subscribed our name as witness and affirmed our respective place of residence this 18th day of January, 1860.

John M. Pruyn, M.D., of Kinderhook.
 Laura Collins, of Albany.

If my faithful James remains with me until my death, I wish my Executors to make him a present of one hundred dollars.

M. VAN BUREN.

Letter from Smith Thompson to Martin Van Buren Dec. 5, 1819: "We may have amongst us men and very probably some of my friends and associates who are jealous of your growing popularity and importance in the State. I think I know you as well as they or anybody else, and I can with utmost sincerity declare that my regard for and good opinion of you grows upon the more intimate knowledge I have of you."

Letter from Martin Van Buren to Benjamin F. Butler, Feb. 12, 1822: "Made my debut to-day in the Senate in a speech of two hours in the presence of a crowded audience of ladies, in opposition to the claim of the Marquis de Maison Rouge for thirty square leagues of land in Louisiana. I attacked it on the ground of fraud."

In Common Council, April 6th, 1827, Mr. Roosevelt presented the following resolution which was read and adopted:

Resolved that Martin Van Beuren, late-Governor of this State, be requested to sit for his portrait to be placed in the City Hall, and that it be referred to a Committee of two, together with the Mayor to carry this resolution into effect.

Whereupon His Honor the Mayor appointed on that Committee The Recorder and Mr. Roosevelt.

J. Morton, Clerk.

Letter from Robert Troup, Dec. 16, 1828, to M. V. B.:

"You do me no more than justice when you suppose that I 'think well of your Dutch Ancestors.' I have never seen a country that impressed me so deeply with a sense of veneration for those who may be said to have created it, as Holland, in which word I include her confederate provinces."

In Common Council, March 23rd, 1829, Alderman Cebra presented the following preamble and resolutions, which were read and adopted:

Whereas, the great and fundamental principle of the compact forming the Union of the United States is, that the individual members thereof, when called on, shall be ever ready to lend their utmost aid either in war or in Council in support of those sacred principles of Civil liberty which we enjoy, and hope and believe it is our high destiny in this happy land to continue to enjoy. Impressed with a deep sense of this truth in the Common Council of the City of New York, while they deeply deplore the necessity which calls on the State to surrender to the National Councils one of her brightest sons, cannot but view with pride and exultation the patriotism and public spirit which has actuated him in the acceptance of those arduous and responsible duties for the public good; and entertaining, as we do, the highest regard not only for the pure republican principles which have uniformly marked the political course of their fellow-citizen, the Honorable Martin Van Beuren, they deem the present moment of their separation from him a proper occasion for the expression of these sentiments of respect and attachment. Therefore, Resolved, that a copy hereof, together with the freedom of the City, be presented to the Hon. Martin Van Beuren as a testimony of the respect and esteem which the people of the City of New York entertain for his private worth and public services.

Resolved, that his Honor, the Mayor, do carry the foregoing resolution into effect.

TRANSLATION.

To the Highborn President Van Buren, New York in North America.

Weinheim, September 17, 1837.

Highborn and Most Honored Mr. President:

We have for some time past learned from many newspapers that your Excellency's grandfather was a German and your Father a Hollander by birth. Your Excellency's name together with the native lands of your Grandfather and Father have induced us to suppose that the former was one of our family of whom we have for a long period heard nothing. The person to whom we refer was named Hartman Von Burn, born at Weinheim in the Bergstrass, and emigrated as a man of business to Holland, where he established himself, and from which it appears that he wished to send a son to do business at Weinheim; he did not, however, do so, and we heard that he with his son emigrated to America.

This Hartman Von Burn had sisters, of whom one went with him to Holland; the other however remained here in Weinheim, and I am her grand-daughter. All our endeavours to hear news of them were vain, and we have at length taken the liberty to address your Excellency and most respectfully to request that in case the said Hartman should have been your grandfather you will do us the honour and give us the pleasure to let us know it. In that case, we can be ready to furnish his certificate of baptism as also that of your Father. In case, however, you should not be as we suppose, we most respectfully request your Excellency to pardon us for the inquiry. We have availed ourselves of the circumstance of the return of Mr. (Merkel) (?) who emigrated from this place to America in 1804, and has been here on a visit, to send this letter.

Again requesting your Excellency to pardon the liberty we have taken, I have the honour respectfully to sign myself,

Your Excellency's

Most —

CHARLOTTE GILLICH.

Our address is Weinheim in the Bergstrass in the Grand Duchy of Baden, to Friedreich Gillich, Master tailor.

Letter from John Van Buren to Martin Van Buren, March 26, 1845. Encloses a copy (translated) of the will of Martin Cornelissen.

"You will see that whenever the name of Van Buren was written in English, it was spelt Van Beuren, being an attempt to translate the sound of the Dutch letter u. This was the cause of the letter e being put into the name as mentioned to me by my grandfather Tobias in his lifetime. We trace back to the testator as follows. My father's name is Cornelius, eldest child of Tobias, who was the eldest child of Cornelius, who was the eldest child of Tobias, who was the son of Cornelius, who was the eldest son of Martin Cornelius the testator."

"Vevay, Sept. 19, 1854.

"My dear Son,

"If you think that I prefer the company here, pleasant as it is, to yours, you are very much mistaken. I, on the contrary, long for nothing so much as to be once more located in apartments with you at some place where the climate agrees with you and where we may flatter ourselves with hopes of your recovery."

OBSEQUIES OF BREVET BRIGADIER-GENERAL J.
LYMAN VAN BUREN.

The funeral of Brevet General James Lyman Van Buren, who died in this city at the residence of his father, No. 46 Union Square, on Friday last, took place yesterday afternoon. Though a young man, General Van Buren was widely known and universally respected and esteemed, alike for his abilities as a soldier and a scholar. In the spring of 1861 he was commissioned as Second Lieutenant in the Fifty-third New York Volunteers (known as the d'Epeneuil Zouaves), with which regiment he remained for some months, doing duty at Annapolis, Maryland, until he was transferred to the Signal corps as chief officer. When the Burnside expedition was fitting out at Annapolis he was appointed as aid-de-camp on General Foster's staff. During the battle of Roanoke Island, in the discharge of his duty, he was constantly under fire, deporting himself with the utmost coolness and bravery. When the Ninth Corps moved to Newbern, North Carolina, he acted as aid on the staff of General Burnside, and was subsequently made Assistant Judge Advocate General for that department. Soon after the President appointed Governor Stanley as Provisional Governor of North Carolina he was promoted to the full rank of Major and appointed as Military Secretary to the Governor, which office he held until the Ninth Corps joined the Army of the Potomac. He remained with his corps until Burnside was removed from the command of the Army of the Potomac and ordered to the Department of Ohio, in the spring of 1863, to which place he accompanied General Burnside, and was actively engaged all through the campaign in East Tennessee. He participated in the siege of Knoxville in the fall of 1863, and was one of the party of officers who rode out to welcome General Sherman on his relief of that position.

In the winter of 1864-5 the Ninth Corps was reorganized and filled up with colored troops. Major Van Buren then rejoined his old corps, and with it participated in the victories and defeats throughout the final campaign of the rebellion. At the mine explosion and battle of July 31, at Fort Steadman and the final attack on Petersburg, he was particularly conspicuous for gallantry, and for his bearing on those occasions and long and faithful service to the country he received his brevet as lieutenant-colonel and brevet brigadier-general. Last August, while home waiting orders, he was attacked with chills and fever, besides suffering from a diseased liver, which it is thought were incidental to the jaundice, a disease that he contracted while in service at North Carolina. He has never been in perfect health since. Surrounded by fond parents and a host of friends he has thus peacefully breathed his last. James Lyman Van Buren was in the twenty-ninth year of his age, a native of Dunkirk, near Lake Erie, in this State, and a graduate of the Free Academy of this city. At that school he was considered one of the brightest scholars, and his associations with his classmates were of such an amicable nature that none of them will read of his death without a feeling of regret at his early demise.

He was commissioned as aid on the staff of General Parke, on the 1st of the present month. Yesterday afternoon the Twelfth Regiment, National Guard, in accordance with orders promulgated from division headquarters, acted as funeral escort to the deceased, and, accompanied by the United States band from Governor's Island, made a fine appearance. The remains were taken to the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, corner of Twenty-second Street, where the solemn and impressive services for the dead were celebrated; after which a beautiful eulogy on the life and patriotic services of the deceased was delivered by the Rev. Howard Crosby, D.D., and the remains were then conveyed to their last resting place in Greenwood. (1866.)

The following is a clipping from one of the Chicago papers: "Judge Evert Van Buren lies at the point of death at his residence, 679 West Adams Street. Judge Van Buren is long known to legal fame. He was one of the oldest practitioners at the Cook County bar. He was born at Kinderhook, Columbia County, N. Y., Nov. 3, 1803. Receiving an academic education, he read law with J. & A. Vanderpoel, of his native town, and was admitted to the bar in 1827, afterward settling in Penn Yan, Yates County, N. Y. Practise came to him almost from the beginning of his career, and he was esteemed the peer of the best lawyers in the county, among whom were numbered John C. Spencer and Dudley Marvin.

"In the 'flush times' of 1836 he moved to Buffalo. His reputation had preceded him and success attended his efforts. As a lawyer, especially in criminal cases, his triumphs were many and brilliant. Urged by his friends in Penn Yan, he returned to that town in 1840. He represented his congressional district in the national anti-masonic convention in 1833, being the youngest man in the convention. Coming to Chicago in 1856, he soon acquired a lucrative practise and was elected Judge of the Recorder's Court, faithfully discharging his duties to the end of his term.

"He entered actively into practise again and continued to take great interest in his profession until quite recently, when the accumulating ills of old age lowered him to his present precarious condition."

CATHERINE PHILIP VAN BUREN

HOMESTEAD OF BARTHOLOMEW VAN BUREN, STUYVESANT FALLS, N. Y. (496)

b. July 11, 1807; d. May 1, 1886, at Kinderhook; buried at Stuyvesant Falls, N. Y.; m. May 29, 1829, Catherine Philip, dau. of Peter Philip and Margaret Schneider of Ghent; b. Apr. 27, 1810; d. Nov. 19, 1866. This couple were the grandparents of the Editor, and with pride and reverence do I recall the great esteem in which they were held by all who knew them. Great was the sorrow when my grandmother died at such an early age, and sincerely was she mourned not only by her family, but by a large circle of true friends who appreciated the quiet, gentle dignity of her manner and the genuineness of her christian character. Grandfather was one of the old-time gentlemen: quiet, dignified, but whose eye would kindle and whose face would be wreathed with a quiet smile when a good story was told, but who would never countenance anything which savored of coarseness. He was an Elder in the Dutch Reformed Church at Stuyvesant Falls for all the years from its establishment until due to advancing years he sold his farm and moved to Kinderhook, where he died. He never held public offices, but was sought by many for his advice and council, and his word was always as good as his bond.

From Sept. 1, 1841, to Apr. 18, 1844, he was Adjutant of the 25th Regiment of the 2nd Brigade of Cavalry of New York State Militia, when he was honorably discharged at his own request. He was elected Supervisor of the Town of Stockport, Nov., 1875, and served on numerous committees until the time of his death, Sept. 27, 1876. The following resolutions were adopted at the time of his death: "Whereas, The Board of Supervisors of the County of Columbia believing it fit and proper that a public expression be made of their sincere sorrow for the mortality that has removed from their places here and among men three valued and useful members of the Board of Supervisors of 1875, an occurrence believed to be without a parallel in the history of this county, under a deep sense of the bereavement sustained by them and by the county at large, but more especially by the families and immediate constituents of our late associates; Resolved, (unanimously), That in testimony of our appreciation of the private character and public worth and services of our fellow members, William H. Snyder, of Gallitin; Uriah Feller, of Clermont, and John Van Buren, of Stockport, we place upon the records of our board this memorial, preamble and resolution." He was an active member of the Methodist Church.

He was the second son of Barent Van Buren and his wife, Grace Denison Van Buren. He was b. in Mayfield, N. Y., Sept. 22, 1795. He was united in marriage Sept. 17, 1817, to Miss Betsey Ayers of Johnstown, N. Y. Shortly after their marriage they moved to Gouverneur, N. Y., and settled on what is now known as the Johnstown Road, this street having received its name from the early settlers, many of whom came from Johnstown. Besides their clothing, Mr. Van Buren was only equipped with an ax. Arriving at Gouverneur they went to the home of John Thrall, a brother-in-law, where they stayed a week, during which time Mr. Van Buren had chopped the trees and hewn them out, completing a cozy little log cabin for himself and his young bride to begin life in for themselves. With untiring industry and perseverance he kept on clearing up his tract of land until there was sufficient lumber to build a good frame house, and eleven years later they moved into their new home. At that time Mr. Van Buren had to go horseback to Rossie, guided only by marked trees, a distance of about 17 miles to get nails to build his new home with, and paid a shilling a pound for them. Both Mr. Van Buren and his wife were good, staunch Presbyterians, among the first to help found a church in Gouverneur. They had to walk to church, a distance of two miles, so they went bare-footed until they nearly reached the church, when they stopped by the roadside and put on their shoes and stockings. Later they were able to drive to church with their oxen team hitched to a lumber wagon. Many were the difficulties under which our forefathers lived. All clothing had to be spun and woven by hand, there being no mills at that time in this new country. Their food also had to be ground by hand. Thomas Harvey

Van Buren was a soldier in the war of 1812. Mr. Van Buren and his wife were blessed with five children:

- 763 Caroline, b. Mar. 16; d. Apr. 5, 1819.
- 764 Willard, b. Apr. 9; d. May 7, 1820.
- 765 Orville, b. Nov. 5, 1821; m. 1843, Lucy Jane Lawrence, by whom he had two children: Emma Jane, Sarah. His second wife was Delia C. Chamberlain; children: Frank, Grace, Clara.
- 766 Harriet, b. Apr. 25, 1822; m. John McElhinney; children: Harriet, Ella, George, William, John, Jesse.
- 767 Lucretia, b. May 1, 1831; m. William H. Smith; no children. Still resides in Gouverneur. These children were all born in the little log cabin except the youngest, Lucretia, who came after they were settled in their new home.

Major William John McElhinney, second son of John McElhinney, and his wife, Harriet Van Buren McElhinney, (766), and a grandson of Thomas (487) Harvey Van Buren, was born at Brockville, Ontario, Canada, Sept. 27, 1862; educated at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Canada, from which he was graduated with honors, June 11, 1881.

In September, 1881, he was appointed assistant engineer on the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, with headquarters at Winnipeg, and remained there until 1885, when he was offered a Lieutenant's commission in the British Army, through Colonel E. D. Hewitt, commandant of the Royal Military College of Canada.

He accepted the offer and proceeded to London, England, to report himself to the Adjutant-General at the War Office in White Hall, London, in December, 1885, and on January 6, 1886, was gazetted in the London Gazette to be a Lieutenant in the corps of Royal Engineers, of which his Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, afterward King Edward VII was Colonel. Major McElhinney then joined the headquarters of the corps of Royal Engineers at Chatham and was on military duty there until February, 1887.

In June, 1886, he was presented at Court to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, at a Levee held at St. James Palace in London, with other young officers who were commissioned during the previous year.

February, 1887, he was ordered abroad for service in India and went to Bombay by troopship, arriving there in March and was posted for duty with a regiment of Sappers and Miners (Royal Engineers) at Poona.

In September, 1887, he was ordered to join the Field Force in Upper Burmah, which under the command of General Sir George White, was ordered to pacify the country. The army of the ex-king of Burma scattered when that country was annexed to Great Britain in 1885 and was devastating the country until it was completely subdued by the British troops. The general warfare lasted three years, and for his services in that campaign Lieutenant McElhinney was awarded the Silver Frontier Medal of India with a silver bar inscribed—Upper Burma, 1887-1889.

In September, 1890, a military force of all arms assembled at Luetta in Baluchistan and marched down the Zhob Valley into Southern Afghanistan against certain Afghan tribes who had been raiding and killing in British Territory. Lieutenant McElhinney was on duty as a staff officer throughout the expedition, which resulted in the complete pacification of the country and the annexation of a large slice of Afghan territory to Great Britain.

After the return of the expedition in the spring of 1891 Lieutenant McElhinney was employed in various military duties in different parts of India, and was promoted to the rank of Captain in July, 1895. In 1898 he was selected for staff employment with the headquarters of the government of India at Simla in the summer and Calcutta in the winter, and on the 3rd of April, 1899, he was married at Christ Church, Simla, to Nora Evelyn Jackson, second daughter of the late Major W. Jackson, of the Royal Engineers. To them a son, Geoffrey William, was born at Lucknow on the 16th of December, 1900, and his wife died at Naini Tal in the Himalayas on the 21st of July, 1901.

Captain McElhinney was promoted to the rank of Major in August, 1903, and retired from the army January, 1911, and settled in England in order to supervise the education of his son.

PETER VAN BUREN, Barent,⁶ Harmen,⁵ Barent,⁴ Pieter,³

b. Nov. 19, 1804; bap. Feb. 19, 1805; was the fourth son of Barent and Grace (Denison) Van Buren.

When about 16 years of age he came to Gouverneur, where two elder brothers, Harmon and Thomas Harvey, had preceded him. He was employed as clerk by Moses Rowley, who was then a leading and prominent man in the town. Peter married, May 12, 1831, Maria Cadwell of Lowville, and after their marriage he commenced the business of his life as hotel-keeper. In 1848 he built the Van Buren House, which he kept up to one year of his death. In the meantime, after erecting the new hotel he bought the property which he had rented for 15 years, converted it into stores for a number of years, then into two private residences and after his death it was occupied by his widow and daughter Emeline, until Mrs. Van Buren's death, when it came into the possession of the daughter. Peter leased from the Averills of Ogdensburgh a piece of land which they owned in the center of the village and which was originally a part of a sand-bed; he filled in and seeded it down and set all the trees, which as fast as they died out, he replaced with new ones; drew water from the river in barrels on a stone-boat and carried it in pails to water the trees. After his ten-year lease had expired, the land still being owned by the Averills some of the citizens thought it should be used for building purposes as it was too valuable to be devoted to a park; then some of the leading men took up the matter and wrote to Mr. Averill. He replied that he would donate it to the village with the understanding that it should never be used for any other purpose than a park.

Mr. Charles Van Duzee once said to Miss Emiline Van Buren: "Your father has left the greatest monument to this village that ever could be erected to his memory." No one in northern New York was more favorably or better known. He was the ideal old-time gentleman and the familiarities used in hotels were never allowed to degenerate into license. No ribaldry or profanity was ever heard when the proprietor was near, nor could any patron indulge his appetite too freely. Tradition has preserved many incidents of his life and all are to his credit. He was a boniface of the best sort and his memory will long survive. He died May 24, 1870.

Children:

- 784 Helen Amelia.
- 785 Carolina.
- 786 Augusta.
- 787 Emeline Cadwell.
- +788 James Barent, b. Apr. 26, 1846; m. 1863, Susan Adams Fosgate.

C. or KATHERINE STARR' VAN BUREN, Barent,⁵ Harmon,⁶ Barent,⁴ Pieter,³ Marten,² Cornelis,¹ second dau. and sixth child of Barent Van Buren and Grace Denison Van Buren, was b. in Mayfield, N. Y., Oct. 27, 1807; bap. Jan. 10, 1808; m. Milton Barney, Nov. 6, 1833.

Their children were:

- 789 Albert Milton Barney, b. in Gouverneur, N. Y., Nov. 18, 1837; d. in New York, Aug. 24, 1886; was the eldest son of Milton Barney and Katherine Van Buren Barney. He was educated at Gouverneur Wesleyan Seminary and subsequently took a course in higher mathematics and civil engineering, to which he added a course in law and was prepared to take his examination, when the firing on Fort Sumter changed the course of his life. On the receipt of the intelligence, Apr. 15, 1861, that the National flag had been struck, he wrote in conspicuous letters and posted on the door of the village post-office, the words: "Fort Sumter has been fired upon; all patriots and lovers of their country are requested to take action in this crisis." At the meeting convened upon this notice, he was the first to volunteer in the company sent out from his native town. He was commissioned 1st Lieut. and mustered into the U. S. service in the 16th N. Y. Vol. Infantry, May 15, 1861; promoted to Captain in the same regiment, June 26, 1862; Lieut. Col. 142nd N. Y. Vol. Infantry, Jan. 21, 1863; Col. same regiment Jan. 15, 1865, and Brevet Brigadier General U. S. Vols., March 28, 1865, and mustered out with his regiment June 7, 1865, closing a term of over four years of active military service, present and ready for duty at all times and in every engagement and battle in which his regiment participated, performing his duty with so much ability and distinguished bravery, that his several promotions were made on the official recommendations of his superior officers, without the solicitation or interference of political or personal friends. In Feb., 1869, he was appointed Special Agent U. S. Treasury. A few months later, Collector of Customs at the Port of Brownsville, Texas. Two years later, appointed Special Agent of the Treasury, which position he held at the time of his death. He was an officer, military and civil, of the Federal Government twenty-one years, charged with great responsibilities, important trusts, delicate transactions, involving the custody and disbursement of a large sum of public money, each of which he discharged with high courage, great ability and sound discretion, and with such scrupulous exactness in financial transactions, that no auditing officer found an error in his accounts. He was twice married; his first wife was Leonora Chamberlain, daughter of Peleg Chamberlain of Gouverneur,—his second wife

Pieter,^o Marten,^o Cornelis,¹

b. at Kinderhook, Nov. 27, 1807; d. in New York City, Mar. 15, 1873; m. Nov., 1838, Angelica Singleton, dau. of Richard Singleton of South Carolina, b. about 1820.

He studied at the Kinderhook Academy and graduated from West Point in 1827. Served on the Western frontier for two years; was aide-de-camp to Gen. Alexander McComb for seven years; made Captain in the 1st Dragoons in 1836; resigned to become private secretary to his father in 1836; he re-entered the Army at the beginning of the Mexican War as Major and Paymaster; was with Gen. Zachary Taylor at Monterey, and with Gen. Scott in every engagement from Vera Cruz to the capture of the city of Mexico.

He was brevetted Lieut.-Col. for bravery at Contraas and Churnambusco in 1847, and served in the Paymaster's Department until 1854, when he resigned. He died in New York City, Mar. 15, 1873.

Angelica Singleton, the wife of Abraham, deserves more than a passing notice. Her father, Richard Singleton, was a prominent planter of South Carolina. While she was attending school at Philadelphia she visited her cousin, the wife of ex-President Madison, and by her was presented to President Van Buren. This led to her introduction to Abraham, the son of the President, in 1838, and the following year she made her appearance as Mistress of the White House at the New Year's Day reception; her youth and beauty at once made her very popular. A trip to England the following year and the advantages which accrued from the fact that her uncle was U. S. Minister to the Court of St. James, were exceptional. She extended her visit to the Continent and returned to Washington fully equipped to resume her place as the first lady of the land in an exceptionally brilliant society assembled at the Capitol. She maintained her position in society until the time of her death which occurred in New York City, Dec. 29, 1878.

b. at Hudson, N. Y., Feb. 10, 1810; d. at sea, Oct. 13, 1856; m. 1841, Elizabeth, dau. of Judge James van der Poel of Albany; she d. Nov. 19, 1844.

John graduated at Yale in 1828; was admitted to the Bar in 1830. He was Attorney-General for the State of New York, 1845-1846.

Much has been written about his unusually brilliant mind and career and there are many who have said that if he had lived, doubtless he would have succeeded to the Presidency, as he was a more brilliant and intellectual man than his father. While with his father as private secretary, during his term of service as Minister to England, he was given entree to the most exclusive society, where his accomplishments and faultless manners made him quite the lion of the season. It is recorded that at one of the court functions he danced with Queen Victoria and thereafter he was called "Prince John." Upon his return to America he resumed the practice of law and soon won fame as one of the leading lawyers of his day. According to a Chronicle of Events at Albany at a meeting held Oct. 8, 1847, of that portion of the Democratic party known as "Barn' Burners," it is stated, "There was much rain from above and indignation from below, as John Van Buren recited the wrongs and perils of himself and co-adjutors at a recent convention at Saratoga, where they were out as irregular delegates." His speech was received with great applause on all sides. During the trial of the Anti-renters at Hudson, N. Y., he as Attorney-General for the State, assisted the Attorney for Columbia County.

Ambrose L. Jordan, also a leading lawyer, was the leading counsel for the defense. John W. Edmonds was the Judge. There was much in the circumstances connected with the case to excite counsel and as the trial proceeded these two famous lawyers increased in their acerbity towards each other until a personal encounter seemed imminent. To quote from Ellis' History of Columbia County, "John W. Edmonds, then one of the circuit judges, presided. He discharged his judicial duties inflexibly and yet courteously."

"Perhaps a more independent and pure judge than he never sat on the bench of the Supreme Court of the State. But the position he occupied on this occasion was trying in the extreme. Before him were two of the most renowned counselors in the State, glaring at each other with the ferocity of opposing gladiators, ready to rend each other in brutal conflict."

"For a long time the forbearance, dignity and firmness of the judge restrained them, keeping them within the pale of respectful deference to the place which they occupied. But as the fourth day of the trial was drawing to a close, a scene occurred rarely witnessed in a court of justice."

"The vindictive passions of the counsel passed beyond control and a personal encounter ensued. Both lawyers had for some time indulged in personalities which the judge could not suppress. Retort followed retort, and denunciation was followed by bitter taunts. At length Mr. Jordan, while addressing the court as to the admissibility of certain evidence offered by Mr. Van Buren, indulged in language the most bitter and insulting. "The attorney-general does not care for the condition of these men. He has not contended for right or justice, but to make an exhibition of himself—to pander to the miserable ambition which was the curse of his father. Though his father had brains to temper his wild ambition in some degree, the son has none to temper his, and it breaks out anywhere in puerility and slush." Van Buren answered the legal objections raised by Jordan with great calmness, force and dignity. Having concluded his argument, he said, with contempt curling his lips, "The counsel opposed has informed your honor the cause of my presence here. I shall not stoop to deny his coarse assertions; but allow me to add that it is quite out of place for a man who stands here in this court with the contributions of murder and arson in his pockets to criticise me for any cause whatever." "A dark, withering frown mounted the menacing features of Jordan; his nostrils expanded; vivid gleams of anger flashed from his large, expressive eyes, and in a twinkling of an eye he planted a heavy blow upon the face of Van Buren. It was returned with rapidity of lightning, and with staggering effect; then, grappling with each other, a terrible struggle ensued. Rage and fury made those great lawyers forgetful of their positions as ministers of justice, deaf to the voice of the judge, to everything but their desire for vengeance. Sheriff Waldo rushed into the bar and with his assistants separated the combatants."

"As soon as order was restored, Judge Edmonds addressed them with great calmness, dignity and eloquence. He alluded to the high standing of the counsel, not only before the State but also the Nation; to the baleful example they had set before the world; to their desecration of the temple of justice; to the great insult they had given to the court. "Should I neglect to promptly punish you for the very great wrong you have done, I should myself be unworthy to occupy the bench. The court regrets that it did not punish your first infraction of the rule of decency; but as that is passed, it will now, by a proper interposition of the strong arm of the law, inflict such a punishment upon you as will preserve its dignity, and we trust, prevent a reoccurrence of the disgraceful scene we have just witnessed. The court therefore sentences both of you to solitary confinement in the county jail for twenty-four hours." When the judge concluded Mr. Van Buren arose and with impressive dignity made an apology couched in words of touching eloquence, concluding as follows: "What could I do, your honor, what could I do under the coarse insults I have been subjected to during this trial? I acknowledge I have violated the decorum of this court and should be punished. But I pray your honor not to degrade me by punishment in the common jail, for I feel that I cannot endure that. I beg your honor to so far modify the sentence of the court as to inflict a fine upon me—I care not how large the amount may be. The example of such a fine would be sufficient and I am sure justice would be vindicated." "But the judge was firm, and inexorable—the very personification of justice in the act of inflicting punishment upon its ministers. 'The court,' said the judge, 'can see no reason for modifying its sentence; the supremacy of the law must be maintained. It is no respecter of persons; it looks only to their acts, and measures its punishments according to those acts, without regard to the standing of the actors. Sheriff, you will now conduct these persons to the county jail and keep them in solitary confinement for the term of twenty-four hours, during which time the court will adjourn."

"Amid the profound, almost stifling silence, the sheriff obeyed, and in his custody, two of the most eminent lawyers of the State of New York passed out of the court-house and were soon incarcerated in the walls of the Columbia County jail." "Before the opening of the court on the morning of the altercation described, Judge Edmonds had received an invitation to spend an evening with ex-President Van Buren at Lindenwald. John was to be his companion in the visit, but before the appointed time he had been committed to jail." "The term for which Van Buren and Jordan had been imprisoned having expired, they entered the courtroom with a nonchalance that was really amusing. An hour or two elapsed when a short recess took place, during which Van Buren approached the bench, laid his arm easily but carelessly upon it and in his peculiar manner remarked, 'I hope your honor slept well last night.' 'As there was nothing to disturb my slumbers, I most certainly did.' 'I thought perhaps it might be possible that your conscience, your sympathy or the thoughts of our unenviable position might disturb your slumbers,' said Van Buren with a characteristic smile, 'but,' he continued, 'the law is now vindicated; my offense is attoned. I suppose, Judge, our arrangement to visit the old man is still in force. He will be delighted to see me under the circumstances, and, Judge, I think his respect for you, on the whole, will not be diminished on account of the lodgings you assigned me last night. I know him of old.' 'I think, Mr. Van Buren, the time we have lost in this trial will render the visit to ex-President Van Buren impossible.' And the visit to the old man did not take place."

"The trial continued several days after the release of the distinguished prisoners. It finally resulted in the conviction of 'Big Thunder' and several anti-renters, and they were sentenced to imprisonment for life in the State prison. The manner in which Van Buren conducted the prosecution gave him great popularity. Among the evidences of this he, with the anti-renter leader, was made the subject of the following conundrum: 'Why is John Van Buren a greater man than Dr. Franklin?' 'Because Franklin bottled lightning, but Van Buren bottled Thunder.' After the close of his term as Attorney-General for the State he became a prominent member of the legal profession in New York City. In the Presidential canvass of 1848 he greatly distinguished himself as a popular advocate of the principles of the free Democratic Party and of the exclusion of slavery from the territories. Afterwards he returned to the Democratic Party."

In 1866 he made an extended tour of Europe and died on the homeward voyage.

and endured the trials and difficulties of the frontier life. After some years spent there he decided to return to the East, and moved to New York City, where he engaged in the milk business, building up a large route first in New York City itself, and later in Brooklyn, where he finally died, a comparatively young man, of heart disease. Both he and wife were active members of the Methodist Church.

was b. Apr. 20, 1835; d. June 18, 1910; m. (1) Dec. 21, 1865, Gertrude B. Van Buren, dau. of Barent, who was b. Nov. 17, 1838, and d. Jan. 2, 1866; m. (2) Apr. 20, 1869, Annie Eliza Hoes, of Lansing, Mich., who was b. Mar. 1, 1835, dau. of Casparus C. and Maria (Van Hoesen) Hoes.

He was educated at Charlottesville, N. Y., and at Claverack, N. Y., under the well-known instructor, Dr. Alonzo Flack, D.D. He became a teacher in various schools of Columbia County. When the Civil War broke out he responded to the call by raising a company, and was appointed Captain of the 6th New York Cavalry. He was in numerous battles; had his hat shot through and the stirrup shot off the saddle; the horse which he was riding shot from under him, and, strange to relate, he never received a scratch.

At Gettysburg he captured a Rebel officer and was presented with the sword of the said officer. He was promoted to Major and finally brevetted Colonel. He was captured at Gettysburg on July 6th, 1863, and taken to Libby prison, at Richmond, Va., July 18, 1863. He remained there until May 7, 1864; was in Andersonville from May 16-17 (1864), and from there was taken to Macon, Ga., and thence to Charleston, S. C. Left there Oct. 6 for Columbia, S. C.

He escaped from the train, and after five days was recaptured and taken to Edgefield Jail; from there he was sent to Augusta, Ga., and then back to Columbia; was confined in "Camp Sorghum," near Columbia, from where he escaped, but was recaptured near Augusta, Ga., and then taken back to Columbia.

In Jan., 1865, he was taken from the Stockade near Columbia to Asylum Camp, within the city limits, and soon after he was taken to Charlotte, N. C., for two days, and then to Raleigh, N. C.; these last two moves were made to get the prisoners out of the way of Sherman's army. He was finally taken to Wilmington, N. C., and exchanged on Mar. 1, 1865, after 295 days of confinement in "Libby Prison" and 310 days in Danville, Salsburg, Macon, Charleston and Columbia. The writer well remembers his telling how they travelled at night when on their escapements, and finally thinking they were within the lines of the Union army they decided to risk it to travel by daylight and had only gone a very short distance when a Rebel officer stepped up to my uncle and laying his hand on his shoulder, said, "You are my prisoner." Uncle said it seemed as if he would have rather died right there than go back to the prisons, but he only said, "I suppose so," and was marched off. Like many others, his health was shattered, and he always suffered from heart disease, but attended to the various Pension offices to which he was appointed.

 and at Claverack, but his health failing, he had to relinquish his plans for a College course, and finished his education with private tutors. He taught in several schools in Columbia County, and pursued his own studies at the same time. On Oct. 1, 1860, he was ordained as a Baptist minister at Lebanon
 Springs, where he served his first pastorate.

In consequence of a severe bronchial affection which rendered it impossible for him to preach, he retired to a farm for nearly two years, at the end of which he had recovered his voice and accepted a call to a large church at Newark, N. Y.
 While pastor there, there was erected a large and elegant church edifice. From there he was called to the pastorate of the Baptist Church, in the city of Dowagiac, Mich. While here he was attacked with malarial fever in its most aggravated form, and nearly lost his life, but returning again to Columbia County, he once more regained sufficient health as to enable him to re-enter ministerial work, and accepted a call to the Baptist Church at Athens-on-the-Hudson, N. Y. Later he was pastor for four years at Johnson's Creek, Niagara County, N. Y., where once again he almost succumbed to a long and serious illness.

Physicians telling him he could never preach again, he decided to complete the necessary course in medicine which he had studied as a pastime for years. On June 29, 1882, he received his license to practice medicine as a Homoeopathic physician. He recovered his health sufficiently so that he again entered into active ministerial work, and became for the second time the Pastor of the Lebanon Springs, N. Y., Church, where he served for eight years, and also pursued the practice of medicine. Later he was Pastor of the Baptist Church at East Chatham, N. Y., for some years. After the death of his wife he returned to Lebanon Springs and served again as their Pastor, and later married there his present wife. While not actively engaged as Pastor for some years now, he frequently supplies churches for brief periods. He continues the practice of medicine. He is a Life Member of the American Tract Society and The Missionary Union.

CHAPTER IV

Maas Cornelissen² Van Buren—Bloomingdale (4)

And his Descendants

SECOND GENERATION.

4

was the third son of the ancestor Cornelis. He was b. about 1645, and died Nov. 27, 1704. He m. Jacomyntje Janse Gardinier, who d. July, 1701.

For some reason known only to himself and not recorded, Maas took as his surname the name of Bloemendael, or Bloemingdale, and the large and well-known Bloomingdale family of to-day are descendants of this third son of Cornelis Maesen Van Buren. By some it has been conjectured that he may have named his farm Bloemingdale, because of its fertility, and, as already stated in the history of Cornelis, the custom of patronymic names not as yet having been established, he saw no objection to assuming that of the place where he resided, as well as that his brothers should assume the name of the place from whence their father had come in Holland. Maas d. in Albany.

CHAPTER V

Allied Families

ABEEL.

STOFFEL JANSEN ABEEL was in Beverwyck in 1653; he is supposed to have been b. about 1623; his wife was Neeltje Janse Croon. In his will, made Dec. 4, 1670, he mentions his wife and children as Magdalena, aged seventeen and already married; Maria, aged fourteen; Johannes, aged eleven, and Elizabeth.

JOHANNES ABEEL married Catalina Schuyler, Apr. 10, 1694; he was a merchant in Beverwyck or Albany, later removed to New York, about 1696, but still later returned to Albany. He was Mayor of Albany, 1694-5, and again, 1709-10. His gravestone, dug up near the Second Dutch Reformed Church, had the following inscription on it: "Here lies the body of John Abeel, who departed this life ye 28th day of Jany. 1711, and in the 44th year of his age. Dient begin van wel to leven. Gingh der well den Hemmel, waert, Ugt den Hemel was gegenven, Str of maar ver liet de Aert."

BANTA.

The progenitor of the American branch of this family bore the name of Epke Jacobs, Epke, son of Jacob; Epke is a Frisian name and corresponds to the English name Egbert. The first record of Banta as a surname in America is that of a marriage in the Dutch Reformed Church at Hackensack, Bergen County, N. J., on Aug. 22, 1696, which stated that Johannes Meyer of New York was married to Jannetie Cornelise Banta from "Ackensack;" the bride was the first born of Cornelis and probably he was the eldest son of the immigrant. This was the first marriage of the Banta family in America that had been born in America. Epke Jacobs, before he came to America was a farmer and lived in the vicinity of Harbingen, an important seaport of Friesland, in the most northern part of Holland; it is supposed that he settled at Flushing, Long Island, but as the town records were lost by the fire of 1789 it is impossible to prove it. He made his will in Flushing in 1669; his children were:

BOGARDUS.

DOMINE EVERARDUS BOGARDUS is a name that is indelibly interwoven with the beginning of history in America, and especially with New York.

He was born in Holland, probably in the town of Woerden, near Utrecht, in 1607, and matriculated as a Student of Letters at Leyden University July 7, 1627, when he was twenty years of age. In the Minutes of the Classis of Amsterdam, Holland, June 7, 1632, it is mentioned that "Everardus Bogardus, who was formerly a Comforter of the Sick in Guinea, presented his Testimonials to the Classis, which are very excellent. He then requested to be examined by the Classis peremptoir (i. e., finally, for ordination), which request was granted him. June 14, 1632, he treated a proposition (preached a sermon) * * * and was thereupon admitted to the examination, and was promoted (ordained)." He was sent to New Netherland, and probably came with Director General Woulter Van Twiller, who arrived in New Amsterdam in the ship Salt Mountain April, 1633. He was the first resident minister in the little Dutch Settlement on Manhattan Island, but not the first preacher. In 1628, a Rev. Jonas Johannes Michaelius officiated for some time. Dom. Michaelius was minister of the church at Hem, North Holland, from 1614 to 1624, when he went to San Salvador, Brazil, and in 1628 became the first Dutch minister at New Amsterdam, (Ecclesiastical Records, State of New York, Vol. D, p. 181).

It has been stated by some authorities that Domine Bogardus was a widower when he arrived in New Amsterdam. However that may be, he married at that place Annetje Janse, widow of Roelof Jansen. "June 21, 1642, declaration, Anetje Jans, widow of Roelof Janse, of Masterland, deceased, as to the provision she made in March, 1638, for her children by said Jansen, previous to her marriage with Rev. Everadus Borgardus."—(Calendar of New York Historical Mss., Dutch, p. 18). On June 21, 1642, a license to marry was issued to Everardus Bogardus and Anna Jansen (Albany Records, Vol. 3, p. 37; given in N. Y. Marriages, p. 35). In 1647, he resigned his pastorate in New Amsterdam and obtained permission to return to Holland. He took passage on the ship Princess in August, 1647. While off the coast of England the mariners mistook the channel, entered the estuary of the river Severn and were shipwrecked on the coast of Wales, Sept. 27, 1647. All on board perished, among whom was Domine Bogardus. Annetje Janse survived him sixteen years. She removed to Beverwyck, now Albany, where she died in 1663; her will was dated January 29, 1663. Annetje Janse or Anneke Jans, as she is more often spoken of, is perhaps better known to posterity than her husband, Domine Bogardus, through the litigations which from time to time her heirs have instituted against the corporation of Trinity Church, New York, for the possession of land belonging to that church corporation.

Annetje Janse was the daughter of Catharine, or as the name is usually given, Trynje Jonas, who was the official midwife of the Dutch West Indies Company in Holland, and as early as 1616 in New Amsterdam.

Her first husband was Roelof Jansen of Maesterland, who was in New Amsterdam in 1630. They removed about that time to Fort Orange, now Albany, where Roelof was employed as foreman or steward by the Patroon Van Rensselaer, on his de Laets Burg Bouwerie, or farm. On July 1, 1662, he was appointed Schepen, an office much like an Alderman. He carried on a trade with the Indians, on his own account. A beautiful little stream is called by his name, in Columbia County, "Roelof Jansen's Kill." Prior to 1635 Roelof Jansen and his wife, Annetje Janse, removed back to New Amsterdam, where he acquired a tract of land from Director General Van Twiller of about sixty acres, on the shore of the North or Hudson River. It was situated some distance to the north of Trinity Church, about the site of the present Jay street and West Broadway. Here he built a farmhouse, but ere he had time to more than begin to cultivate his farm he died, and the property passed into the hands of his widow, Annetje Janse, who was left with the care of the farm and four little children.

After her second marriage to Dom. Bogardus, the farm was known as the "Domine's bouwerie," and was their home. When Dom. Bogardus died and Annetje removed to Beaverwyck, this land became a part of what was called "the King's farm," which extended some distance further south, and embraced the present site of Trinity Church. It is not known exactly how it passed into the possession of the King's Farm. Whether it was bought from Annetje or her children, or whether it lapsed to the Crown after her death, has never been clearly shown. On Nov. 15, 1705, a portion of the King's farm, including this tract, was given by partition to the corporation of Trinity Church.

This is the famous "Annetje Janse farm," now situated in the very heart of New York's most valuable business section, and worth many millions of dollars, and for the possession of which many thousands have been spent.

By Roelof Janse, Annetje Janse had four children: (1) Sarah Roelofse, b. in Maasterland, m. June 29, 1642, Surgeon Hans Kierstede, by whom she had issue, Roelof Kierstede. She had one and perhaps two other husbands and d. in 1693. (2) Catrina Roelofse, b. in Maasterland, m. (1st) Lucas Rodenburgh, Vice-Director of Curacoa; (2nd) Johannes Van Brugh, a prominent merchant and magistrate of New Amsterdam; by him she had issue, Annatie Van Brugh. (3) Sytie, or Fytie Roelofse, b. in Maasterland, m. Pieter Hartgers, Commissary of Fort Orange, who d. in Holland in 1670; by whom she had issue, Jannetie Hartgers and Rachel Hartgers; she had died prior to Jan. 29, 1663 (see mother's will). (4) Jan Roelofse who, at his mother's death in 1663, was unm., and is said to have died without issue. (Van Duersen Gen.)

CORNELIS BOGARDUS, second son of Domine Everardus Bogardus, was b. Sept. 9, 1640, in the first parsonage located in Brugh street, New Amsterdam. He was bap. in the wooden church erected for his father, near the East river, at what is now 45 Pearl street. He m. about 1662, Helena Teller, bap. in 1645, a dau. of William and Margaret (Donscheson) Teller. She m. as her second husband, Francis Rombouts, (Bergen's Early Settlers of Kings Co., N. Y., p. 297). (Van Duersen Genealogy.) When Cornelis was only seven, his father having perished at sea, his mother leased the house and moved to Albany, where they lived in what was for then a comfortable home, situated on what is now State street. The site is now occupied by the Farmers and Mechanics Bank.

Previous to his marriage Cornelis bought a house from Willem Jansen for which he paid "85 good, whole, merchantable beaver skins, reckoned at 8 guilders apiece, with which payment the grantor acknowledges he is fully paid and satisfied." This transfer was made Sept. 11, 1663. He d. 1666, only two years after his marriage, and when he was only twenty-six years old

According to Lewis' Hudson and Mohawk Valley Families, his widow married for second husband Jan Hendrickse Van Ball, and for her third husband Francois Rombout. Child:

CORNELIS BOGARDUS, b. Oct. 13, 1665, in Beverwyck or Fort Orange, now Albany. Following his mother's second marriage he went to live with his uncles, Peter and Jonas, sons of Domine and Anneke Janse Borgardus. They were living at the time in a house next to their mother's, a site later occupied by the Albany Evening Journal. When several years later Peter removed to Kingston, Cornelis accompanied him and married there Rachel DeWitt, in 1691, a dau. of Tyerck Classen DeWitt, (see Dewitt family). Cornelis was owner of a vessel employed in carrying freight on the Hudson River.

In 1700 he returned to Albany. He was made a "Freeman" and became prominent in its affairs. Later he accompanied Nicholas Evertsen on a raid in Colonial service against a band of French Privateers off the Coast in 1704. He d. in Kingston in 1718. Children:

BRODHEAD.

(From History of Wayne, Pike and Monroe Counties, Pa.)

The ancestor of the Brodhead family is said to have come from Germany to England, and to have settled at Royston, in Yorkshire, in the reign of Henry VIII. On Feb. 28th, 1610, James I granted the manor of Burton or Monk Britton, in the west riding of Yorkshire, to John Brodhead and George Wood, the principal freeholders of that place.

DANIEL BRODHEAD, grand-nephew of John, the above-named grantee, was the ancestor of those who bear the name in the United States. He was born in Yorkshire, married Ann Tye, was an officer in the army of King Charles II, and accompanied the expedition of Colonel Nicolls from England in 1664. He was appointed commander-in-chief of the military forces at Kingston, September 14, 1665, where he remained until his death, July 14, 1667. He had three sons, Daniel, Charles and Richard.

RICHARD BRODHEAD, son of Daniel, was twice married. By his first wife, who was a Miss Jansen, he had one child, who was named Daniel Brodhead. Daniel, son of Richard, was born at Marbletown, N. Y., in 1693; married Hester Wyngart, of Albany, in 1720, moved to Pennsylvania in 1738, and settled at East Stroudsburg, upon land acquired some two years before from the proprietaries of the province, apparently for service rendered, comprising one thousand acres. It embraced the present town of East Stroudsburg, and an additional purchase of five hundred acres extended the area to Wallace's Mill Dam, on McMichael Creek. This property was known locally as the "Brodhead Manor," and the settlement at Dansbury, being in the several divisions of counties first in Bucks, then in Northampton, and now in Monroe. On September 25th, 1747, he was commissioned one of the Justices of the Peace for the portion of Bucks County north of the "Blue Hills," which he held for the rest of his life.

DANIEL BRODHEAD died at Bethlehem (whither he had gone for medical treatment) on July 22nd, 1755. Some of his children were educated at Bethlehem. His son John was a pupil there in 1752.

Fourth Generation—Children of Daniel Brodhead and Hester Wyngert were Charles, who married Mary Oliver; Garrett, who married Jane Davis; Daniel, who married Elizabeth Depui; John, who married Mary Davis; Thomas, who died at sea; Luke, who married Elizabeth Harrison, 1737-1806, and Ann Carton, who never married.

LUKE BRODHEAD, whose wife was Elizabeth Harrison, had nine children, viz: Thomas Brodhead, M.D., who married Mary Curtis, 1765-1830; Daniel Brodhead married Rachel Nottingham (1767-1848); John Brodhead, D.D., married Mary Dodge (1770-1838); Mary Brodhead married Leonard Hardenburg (1772); Ann G. Brodhead never married (1774-1852); Luke Brodhead married Elizabeth Wills (1777-1845)- (1789-1877; Elizabeth Brodhead married Richard Wentworth (1779-1868); Alexander Brodhead married Elizabeth Bloom; Eliza Brodhead married Joseph Barton, 1798.

THOMAS BRODHEAD, M.D., of the fifth generation, was born at Dansbury (East Stroudsburg) in 1765. He went to Ulster County, New York, when a young man, and studied medicine with Dr. Oliver. He was an eminent physician, and acquired a large fortune in his practice. He married Maria Curtis in 1790, and had eight children, viz: Geertje (or Gertrude), born Sept. 11, 1791; John, born Aug. 2, 1794; William Wheeler, born Aug. 2, 1779; Seth Curtis, born Dec. 8, 1799; Elizabeth, born Aug. 25, 1801; James Oliver, born June 3, 1803; Mary Caroline, born Sept. 10, 1805, and Frances, born Sept. 3, 1807. He died Nov. 30th, 1830.

Geertje, or Gertrude, Brodhead, daughter and eldest child of Dr. Thos. Brodhead and Maria Curtis, was born Sept. 11th, 1791. She married John Du Bois June 23, 1811, and resided in Red Hook, Dutchess County, N. Y., until the time of her death, which was June 21, 1863. She had four children, Helen Maria, born May 29, 1812; Thomas B., born July 14, 1815 (died Feb. 7, 1817); Elizabeth, born Feb. 4, 1818, and William Christian, born Aug. 22, 1822.

ELIZABETH DU BOIS, daughter of John Du Bois and Gertrude Brodhead, was born at Red Hook, Feb. 4, 1818. She married Benjamin F. Teller, Oct. 17, 1837, and died at Auburn, N. Y., Nov. 11, 1891. She had three children, Matthew S. Teller, born Sept. 4, 1838, who died Sept. 8, 1883, leaving no issue; John D. Teller, born May 11, 1845, now residing at Auburn, N. Y., and Mary Louisa Teller, born Sept. 23, 1854, and now residing at Auburn, N. Y.

HELEN MARIA DU BOIS, daughter of John Du Bois and Gertrude Brodhead, was married June 8, 1836, to Barent Van Buren, died at her home in Ghent, N. Y., Mar. 28, 1845. She left her surviving four children, Henry D. Van Buren, Barent Van Buren, Gertrude Van Buren and Elizabeth Van Buren.

MARY CAROLINE BRODHEAD, daughter of Dr. Thos. Brodhead and Maria Curtis, was born Sept. 10, 1805. She married Dr. Peter Van Buren, and resided in Albany and later in New York City. They had four children, Thomas Brodhead Van Buren (who married Harriet Sheffield, of New Haven, Conn.); Mary Catherine, who married Mr. McGregor; Harriet S., who married Mr. Deutch, and Emma Van Buren.

BRONCK or BRONK.

The American founder of the Bronck family was Jonas, born in Copenhagen, Denmark. He came to America from Amsterdam, Holland, where he had married Antonia Slagboom. He arrived here in 1639, having made the voyage in his own ship, called Five of Troy, manned by himself, accompanied by a friend who was an officer in the Danish army, Capt. Joachiem Pietersen Kuyter.

They each brought their family and a number of herdsmen or farmers, as their cargo was cattle. Jonas was a man of means, as proved by the fact that he loaned large amounts to his friends. He acquired land north of the Great Kill, where he built a stone house covered with tiles, a barn, tobacco-house and two barracks. He called his home "Emmans." Later he purchased from the Indians five hundred acres on the now Bronx River; this later was included in the Manor of Morrisania. Here he had a substantial house, servants, and cattle. He was a devoted Lutheran. Director Kieft appointed a meeting of the Indian Chiefs at his house, where a Treaty was made. Following the making of the Treaty, occurred the murder of an Indian; whether by a white man or not was unproved, but the Indians as a revenge for the murder slew some of the white men, Jonas Bronck among them. His property was saved. He possessed for that day an unusually good library of Latin and Danish books of Law, History and Divinity. His widow married Arent Curler, of Rensselaerswyck, whom she also survived; she died in Schenectady Dec. 19, 1676. The inventory of his property shows that he was possessed of "2 Bibles, mirrors, napkins, extension table, 4 silver tankards, a silver cup, spoons, etc., etc." There is still existing among his descendants a silver cup said to have belonged to Jonas, and it contains the family coat of arms, which is the same as on the windows of the old Dutch Church in Albany where his son Pieter worshiped.

Peter Jonassen Bronck, son of Jonas, was born in Holland; died 1669, in Coxsackie, N. Y. His wife was Hillitje Tyssenck; they had sons, Pieter and Jan. Peter Jonassen was a brewer of Beverwyck. He owned houses and lots as early as 1645, which he sold in 1662, after which he bought land in Coxsackie (which was a Colonial grant known as the Bronck patent), Jan. 13, 1662, and it was confirmed as a Patent June 11, 1667. The patent is on file at the Secretary of State's office in Albany (prior to the fire, the original could be seen there, and the original inventory of the effects of Jonas Bronck.)

JAN BRONCK, son of Peter Jonassen, was born in Beverwyck or Albany, 1650, and died in Coxsackie, N. Y., 1742 (?); he married Commertje Leendertse Conyn.

The Patent descended to Jan; part of it is still in the possession of the Rev. Louis Lampman, whose wife was a Bronck. The old Bronck house is still standing, considerably over 200 years old, while the brick part bears the date of 1738. Here was the old saw-mill which ground flour for the soldiers during the Revolution. In 1705 Jan Bronck received a patent for a tract of land from Queen Anne, the original of which is in the possession of Dr. Charles Alexander Rhodes, of New York. It is beautifully engrossed on sheepskin, and written in a fine hand, and is in a good state of preservation, although over 200 years old.

The silver cup before referred to is in the possession of the referee in bankruptcy, R. Bronk Fish, Fultonville, N. Y.

The military record of the family gains in importance in each generation. Jan was a Lieutenant in 1709 and a Justice of the Peace of Albany County in 1728. Jan Leendertsen, fourth in descent from Jonas, married Elsie Van Buren, and established the rights of his descendants to all societies with early military claims by becoming Captain of Militia in 1740, and in 1770 was commissioned to that rank by Lieutenant-Governor Cadwalder Colden; later he was promoted to the rank of Major of the 11th Regiment, which was confirmed by the Provincial Congress. The sole male heir of Jan Leendertsen, Leonard, was made First Lieutenant by the Convention of New York State in 1777, and in 1778 Gov. George Clinton gave him commission for same position. In 1793 he was a Major, and in 1796 he was a Lieutenant-Colonel. In 1786, 1789-1792 he was a Representative in the Assembly. In 1796 he was United States Senator from New York. On March 29, 1790, he was appointed first Judge of the Court of Common Pleas.

Other members of the Bronk family took part in the different wars as shown by the records of the French and Indian Wars.

The Coat-of-Arms of Jonas Bronck is said by good authority to be that after which the coat-of-arms of New York State was modeled.

BURHANS.

The first of this family to appear in America was Jacob, who was probably of Holland birth; the first record is March 28, 1660, where he is mentioned as a soldier or sailor on the "Esopus," in the company of his "Noble Honor, the Directorco General." December 7, 1660, his name appears third on the list of Church members at Wiltwyck, N. Y. (now Kingston).

In 1661 he appears on the muster roll, was appointed Collector of Church, and excise consumption of wine and beer. In 1662 he had two houses burned in second Esopus, over in the "New Village," outside of the stockade.

In 1666 he was elected and confirmed Scheper or Schepen (sheriff) of the Court at Wiltwyck for one year. In 1667 appointed Commissioner of Court and held it until April 28, 1668. Not found in the records after 1668.

CONKLIN.

About 1638 there came to America one Francis Conklyne, of Nottinghamshire, England, with his wife, Mary Launder, whom he had married there Feb. 23, 1630. He and a brother John settled at Salem, Mass., 1638, and established the first glass works in America. They removed to Southold, Long Island, about 1650. John afterward settled at Huntington, Long Island, where he died in 1683, aged about 83 years. Another brother, Annaias, settled at Easthampton, L. I., about 1653, and died there 1656. He was the ancestor of Roscoe Conkling. He is supposed to have had a son John, and he a son Nicholas, born about 1661.

NICHOLAS CONKLIN lived at Eastchester, as early as 1682. He bought, with others, the "Kakiate Patent," consisting of many thousand acres of land, in Rockland County, in 1711, and settled there a few years later. His wife's name was Sarah, dau. of John Hunt. They had sons, John, Elias, Edmond, William, and Joshua.

DE WITT.

TJERCK CLASSEN DE WITT, who came to America before 1656, is the American ancestor of that family. He was a son of Nicholas and Taaltje De Witt, whose home in the Netherlands was in Grootholdt, district of Zunderland, in the southern part of East Friesland.

De Witt is one of the few Dutch-American names illustrious in the Fatherland. Grand Pensioner Johannes De Witt administered the Government of Holland in 1652-1672. He and his brother Cornelis, also prominent in Civil and Military life in the Netherlands were killed by a mob at the Hague. Tjerck Classen was a kinsman of these brothers. Tjerck was m. in Reformed Dutch Church in New York, Apr. 24, 1656, to Barbara Andrissen of Amsterdam, Holland.

In the Spring of 1657, he removed to Beverwyck, where he resided until Sept., 1660, when he exchanged his Beverwyck property with Madame De Huilter for land she held in Esopus (now Kingston), whither he removed. He was a magistrate of Ulster Co., 1689, and held other prominent offices. He d. Feb., 1701. His will, dated Mar. 4, 1687, gave to his daughter Rachel a twelfth of his whole estate, less £100, which represented a sum he had previously advanced. A descendant of his, Maria De Witt, m. Capt. DU BOIS.

JACQUES and LOUIS DU BOIS were born near La Bassee, in the Province of Artois, France. They are supposed to have been brothers.

JACQUES DU BOIS was married in Leyden in April, 1663, from which place he came to this country in 1675. He died soon afterward, leaving three sons, Jacques, born in Leyden in March, 1665; John, b. in July, 1671, and Pierre (or Pieter), the ancestor of the Dutchess County branch of the family, born at Leyden March 17, 1674.

Peter grew up at Kingston, N. Y., and married Jannetje Burhams (daughter of Jan Burhams, of Brabant), October 12, 1697.

One of his sons was named Christian, probably the same name as Peter's grandfather. Louis and Jacques Du Bois were Walloons. Their language was the old French dialect of Picardy, one of the three sources of the pure French of his time.

The surname Du Bois or rather du Bois, was an ancient family name in Artois and Normandy before William I of England left his native country.

According to Viscount de Maguy, the head of the Heraldic College of France, in 1875, the family name "du Bois" is one of the very oldest in France and has more extensive marriage connections than any other. The prefix "du," a contraction of "de la" is admitted in France to be a badge of noble extraction.

Jacques Du Bois lived in this country only about one year. He was one of the twelve patentees of the Paltz in Ulster County, N. Y.

PETER DU BOIS was the seventh son of Jacques Du Bois and Pierronne Bentyn. He was b. in Holland and bap. at Leyden, Mar. 18, 1674. He came with his father to "Wiltwyck," now Kingston, N. Y., when thirteen months old, where Louis Du Bois had arrived fifteen years before. His father Jacques died at Kingston about the year 1676. Peter m. Oct. 12, 1697, to Jannetje Burhams, of Brabant.

Eleven children were born of this marriage—seven sons and four daughters. Six of the children married.

Peter Du Bois died Jan. 22, 1738, aged 63, and was buried in Fishkill Dutch Reformed Churchyard.

In or about the year 1707 Peter moved to Dutchess County, where he bought a tract of land in the Town of Fishkill of Henry Beekman. The house, a one story stone house, with steep roof, about three and a half miles from Fishkill village, near Swartoutville, on Sprout Creek, still stands.

Of his children there are named in his will Jonathan, to whom he gave a farm, and Abraham, to whom he gave the "Old Homestead." He had a son named Christian, who married Neeltje Van Vliet. He died about 1786, leaving two daughters and one son.

This son, who was named Christian Du Bois, Jr., was born June 13, 1746, and died Dec. 17, 1807. On Nov. 17, 1768, he married Helena Van Voorhies (who was born Apr. 30, 1744, and died Mar. 4, 1826). They had eight children, viz:

FRYENMOET.

REV. JOHANNIS CASPARUS FRYENMOET or Frymuth according to the Swiss spelling was born in Switzerland. He emigrated while a young man to America and took up his residence at Minisink in Orange Co. (now Port Jervis). Here the people of the associated churches of Mahackamack, Minisink, Walpack, and Smithfield took a special interest in him and sent him to Holland to complete his education and receive ordination. Returning he accepted the pastorate of these churches. An Indian massacre made him a fugitive. For a time he was the pastor of the North Branch church.

He then came to Claverack where he received a joint call from the churches of Claverack, Kinderhook, and Livingston Manor. "It stipulated to pay him first, the sum of forty pounds each or about 300 in all; second, to provide him with a dwelling house 'becoming a preacher' with a kitchen, stable, etc., together with several acres of land for a garden, pasture, mow-ground, orchard, etc., which should be situated in Claverack, the congregation of Claverack to provide these things for their privilege of having the preacher dwelling among them. The other congregations to provide the preacher with 'entertainment becoming his office' while laboring among them. Third, the three congregations to bear his expenses of moving each an equal share." Domine Fryenmoet took three months to consider this call and then accepted it. His ministry lasted in Claverack until 1770, when he withdrew to confine his labors entirely to Schodack and Kinderhook. He died about 1778 nearly 60 years of age. He was interred under the Kinderhook church. He had a curious way of signing his age after his name.

During his ministry the church of Claverack was erected which is still standing. It was dedicated Nov. 8, 1767; the sermon was preached by Domine Fryenmoet. The bricks were brought from Holland. It is a tradition of the Van Rensselaer family that they were carried to Albany and then down the Hudson by sloop to Hudson and by team out to Claverack; Dom. Fryenmoet's wife was Magdalena Van Etten, dau. of Jacob and Antje (Westbroeck) Van Etten; they had four daughters: Antje, who m. John E. Van Allen. Maria, who m. Abraham E. Van Allen. Heytlje, who m. Nicholas Kittle; and Dorothea, bap. at Machackemack (Deer Park), Apr. 23, 1743; sps. HOES.

JAN TYSSSEN HOES, of Albany, N. Y., the Immigrant Ancestor of the Hoes family in America, was probably b. as early as 1630. His first wife was Brechtje Mamus, wid. of Claes Cornelisz Van Voorhout, and his second wife was Christyntje Van Hoesen, dau. of Jan Franz Hoesen, of Albany, and his wife Volkertje Jurriaens (Van Rensselaer Bowier, MSS.; pp. 734, 836, 845).

Jan Tyssen Hoes; d. May 31, 1705, (See Calendar of Wills, N. Y.) He resided at Kinderhook and Albany, being one of the first Patentees of Kinderhook. In the early records the name of "Hoes" is spelled "Goes," the letter "G" in Dutch having the exact sound of "H" and the pronunciation of "Goes" being "Hoes." As the name soon came to be spelled in that way it has been deemed advisable to follow that form throughout this genealogy. (Van Deursen Genealogy).

Children from Calendar of Wills, excepting the youngest: Matthys Jansz Hoes; b. about 1664; m. Oct. 21, 1685, Cornelia Mattheusz Van Deusen (Albany Church Records).

Anneke Jansz Hoes; b. about 1667; m. Isaac Vosburgh; banns registered at Albany, Aug. 1, 1686, eleven children.

Tryntje Jansz Hoes; b. about 1670; m. (1) Oct. 20, 1689; Thomas Winne, (Albany Church Records) son of Pieter Winne; b. in Ghent, Flanders, and his wife Tannetie Adams; b. in Leeuwarden, Friesland.

Pieter Winne was a Commissary, or Magistrate, at Bethlehem, Albany County, and his will was proved Feb. 22, 1685-6, in which fourteen children are named (See Calendar of Wills No. 845). Tryntje Hoes; m. (2) Jacobus Turk, widower of Catherine Van Benthuyssen; their banns being registered at Albany, Oct. 27, 1705; and the certificate of marriage Nov. 5, 1705. She had four children by Thomas Winne and two by Jacob Turk.

Dirk Jansz Hoes, b. about 1675; m. about 1697, Elisabeth Lucassen Wyngaart.

Judith Jansz Hoes, b. about 1678; m. about 1697, Isak Hendriksz Burger, by whom she had two children, whose baptisms are recorded at Albany.

Mayke Jansz Hoes, b. about 1682; m. Oct. 22, 1703; Borger Huik (banns registered at Albany, Oct. 2, 1703). They were m. at the house of Lucas Gerritse Wyngaart, both b. and residing at Kinderhook, they had six children.

CHAPLAIN ROSWELL RANDALL HOES, U. S. N., son of the Rev. John C. F. Hoes, D.D., of Kingston, N. Y., b. there Feb. 28, 1850; m. (1) May 12, 1875, Elizabeth Seabrook Welch, who d. Apr. 8, 1879; (2), Dec. 5, 1888, Rose de Chine Gouverneur, dau. of Samuel L. Gouverneur and Maria Campbell.

Chaplain Hoes received his early education at the old Kingston Academy, entering Amherst College, in 1867, at the age of seventeen.

After passing his freshman and sophomore years at that institution of learning, he received honorable dismissal and entered Princeton College, where he graduated in 1871. For the following year he taught a private class of young men, at Lambertville, N. J., and in the Fall of 1872, entered Princeton Theological Seminary, graduating in 1875. He was ordained July 1, 1875, and was pastor of the Mt. Holly, N. J., Presbyterian Church from 1875 to 1879, when he took the pastorate of the Presbyterian Church at New Rochelle, N. Y., remaining there until 1882. He was appointed Chaplain in the United States Navy by President Arthur, July 26, 1882, his first service being on the U. S. Flagship Tennessee, of North Atlantic Squadron, 1882 to 1885, in which he made three winter cruises, to the West Indies, South America, and Mexico.

He then volunteered his services on the Greely Relief Expedition, which offer was declined by the Secretary of the Navy, William E. Chandler.

Mr. Hoes, then travelled abroad for fourteen months, visiting Great Britain, the European Continent, Egypt, Tunis, Palestine, Syria, and Asia.

He was stationed at the New York Navy Yard, 1887 to 1889, when he was transferred to the Washington Navy Yard, remaining there until 1890.

From 1890 to 1893 he was attached to the Flagship Pensacola, of the South Atlantic Squadron, visiting South American countries and Hawaii.

While they were at Honolulu, Chaplain Hoes' literary taste and ability found ways of service. He was instrumental in organizing the Hawaiian Historical Society and at the request of Queen Liliuokalani to Secretary of State Blaine, began the arrangement of the Government Archives and Bibliography of the Hawaiian Kingdom. Upon his return to the States he became Chaplain of the U. S. Naval Home, at Philadelphia, 1893 to 1894, and in 1894 was stationed at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, remaining there until June, 1897. From June, 1897, through Sept., 1898, he was attached to the U. S. Battleship Iowa, during the Spanish-American War. He was present at the bombardment of San Juan, Porto Rico, and all the operations against Santiago, including the battle with the Spanish Squadron. From September, 1898, to June, 1899, he was stationed at the Boston Navy Yard; during which time he was appointed Chaplain of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and preached its two hundredth and sixty-second annual sermon; also delivering the Decoration Day Oration at Tremont Temple, Boston, in 1900. From May, 1900, to May, 1902, he was attached to the Battleship Kearsage, of the North Atlantic Squadron, and from May, 1902, to Feb., 1907, was stationed at the Washington Navy Yard. In March, 1907, he was transferred to the Navy Yard, at Norfolk, Va., where he remained until his retirement in Feb., 1912.

On Mar. 19, 1897, he was promoted to the rank of Commander and to that of Captain on March 2, 1902.

Mr. Hoes has also taken an active part in the field of literature and is an able genealogist. He is the author of many printed sermons, orations, and various contributions to the religious and secular press, historical and genealogical magazines. While stationed in Washington, D. C., he declined the Chair of Belles Lettres and English Literature in Columbia (now George Washington) University, in that city. He is a life member of the American Bible Society and the American Tract Society; member of the New York Genealogical Society, of which he was the Corresponding Secretary for two years; Corresponding member of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, the State Historical Societies of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Virginia, the Minisink Historical Society; Newport Historical Society; Hawaiian Historical Society; the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania; the American Historical Association, and the American Society of Church History. He is a Charter Member of the Rhode Island Chapter of Colonial Wars; a member of the Huguenot Society of America, the Holland Society of New York, and the Sons of the Revolution.

One of his valuable contributions to genealogical work is his compilation of the bap. and mar. registers of the old Dutch Church at Kingston, N. Y., 1660 to 1810, containing 797 pages.

He is at present engaged compiling a genealogy of the Hoes family, so intimately associated with the early Dutch settlements of the Hudson Valley. Children, by the first wife:

Isabel Dorrance Hoes, b. Mar. 3, 1876.

John Paul Jones, b. Mar. 7, 1879.

By the second wife:

Gouverneur Hoes, b. Sept. 10, 1889.

Rosewell Randall Hoes, b. June 19, 1891, d. Apr. 12, 1901.

Lawrence Gouverneur Hoes, b. Jan. 8, 1900.

HOGEBOOM.

The name Hogeboom is derived from the Dutch words "hoog," meaning high and "boom" meaning tree, high tree, which may mean height or be merely a local name. In 1372, "S. Maes van Hoecbomme" is mentioned in the archives of Holland and the use of "van" meaning from indicates a name of local origin. Early traces of the family are found at The Hague, Heiloo, Haarlem, Benschop, Nieuwenierop, and Amsterdam. Occasionally in this country, one meets with the signature of Cornelis Hoogebóom, lawyer and notary at the Singel in Amsterdam, who was born in 1625 and buried Sept. 1, 1684, son of Jan Cornelisz Hoogebóom, of Nieuwenierop, notary at Amsterdam, and Grietge, Wittebol. Cornelis mar. Aug. 31. 1659, Christina Geelvinck, born 1627 and buried Dec. 17. 1699, without issue. At the present time the name Hogeboom exists on the islands of Southern Holland and at Makkum in Friesland, a town noted for its manufacture of tiles. It is possible that Cornelis Pietersen Hogeboom, the tile and brick maker of New Amsterdam and Kingston, was a native of that place. In this country the name first appears under the form of Hoogebóom or Hoogenbooin, which later became contracted to Hogeboom, its present form.

CORNELIS PIETERSEN HOOGEBOOM, and Mees Pieterse Hoogebóom were the first representatives of the family in New Netherlands. In 1662, Jan Pietersze and Maria Hoogebóom joined the church at Brooklyn with letters from the town of Bunnick, of Holland. It was a peculiarity of some of the early ministers or clerks, in the case of husband and wife to write the husband's name with its patronymic and his family name following his wife's name. If this is true here, Jan Pietersze may have been a Hoogebóom and a brother of Cornelis and Mees.

Cornelis Pieterse Hoogebóom first appears at Fort Orange, (Albany), where on Oct. 17, 1656, Jurian the glazier (Jurian Teunisse Tappan) was brought to trial for assaulting and wounding him. In 1659 or earlier, Hoogebóom had formed a partnership with Jan Andriessen DeGraaf for the manufacture of brick at New Amsterdam. Hoogebóom's success was important because it rendered Manhattan independent of the brick supply from the neighboring places and the mother country. He last appears at New Amsterdam, in March, 1663. He returned to Albany, and on Jan. 21, 1664, agreed with Gerrit Van Sclichtenhorst to serve at the tile kiln from Jan. until Nov. next or as long as the weather permits for 60 beavers and board. A year later he appears at Wiltwyck, (Kingston) where he requests that he may be granted a lot opposite the milldam for a brickyard. From time to time he added to his land. Aside from his land holdings he owned slaves, for on Oct. 3, 1681, he sold Frederick Hussey a negro named "Pumpkin" for 30 schepels of wheat.

That he was a man of education is shown by the fact that on Oct. 26, 1668, he asked permission "to keep evening school" and on Oct. 23, 1671 he again requested to be appointed schoolmaster and to have the village house, and lot rent free for the time of two years. The tile and brickmaker had become a teacher and finally in 1674, he was nominated for schepen, (magistrate).

Of his first marriage and the birth or bap. of his son we have no record. He married the second time Annetie Cornelise Slecht (Sleight), dau. of Cornelis Barentsen Slecht and Tryntje Tysse Bos, from Woerden, in the province of South Holland. She was a widow in 1719, when she made a will.

BARTHOLOMEUS (MEES OR MEUS) PIETERSEN HOOGEBOOM, unlike his brother, the tile and brick maker, was a trader and operator of a vessel on the Hudson.

He first appears in this country in 1657; on March 20th the sheriff of Albany called Meuwis Hoogebóom and others to account for playing at golf on the public prayer day. The case was put over, but as there is no later reference to fine or punishment the officer probably dismissed them with a warning. The incident is important as showing at what an early time golf was played in this country by the Dutch. During the interval from 1657 to 1674 Mees Hoogebóom had advanced from a helper to a freighter with a vessel of his own. On January 21, 1678-79, Claes Van Patten sold him one-half of the yacht Royal Oak, now lying in Steevens Kil and on Aug. 6, 1679, the remaining half. In 1680 the Labidist brothers, Jasper Dankers and Peter Sluyter, while traveling through the country in search of an eligible site for a colony left in their diary this account of Skipper Hoogebóom: "On April 15th we went in search of a boat to go to Albany and found one ready to leave immediately. The name of the skipper was Meus Hoogebóom, to whom we agreed to pay, for the passage up and down, one beaver, that is, 25 guilders in seewan, for each of us and find ourselves.

We gave him our names to have them inserted in our passport. On Apr. 17th we went to inquire whether the boat was going up the river to-day, but it could not be got ready. We left New York about three o'clock in the afternoon of the 19th and at noon of the 22nd anchored at Fort Orange. We first thought of taking lodgings with our skipper, but had been warned that his house was unregulated and poorly kept; we were therefore entertained by Mr. Robert Sanders." On their return trip they write under date of Apr. 26th: "as soon as we arrived in Albany we went to our skipper, Meus Hoogeboom to inquire when he was going to the city. He said to-morrow, but he would come and notify us of the time. We saw it would run on a much longer time, as it usually does in these parts." It was not until four days later that the Labadists were able to leave for New York.

On Apr. 1, 1684, Mees was ordered to move his yacht from the city stockade and on May 6th he was arrested for contempt of court for not obeying the order. June 31st, 1684, he sold a yacht called The Royal Oak to Hendrick Abelse (Reddenhausen) and Nanning Harmense (Vischer). Not only did Mees convey freight and passengers, but he also carried on a trade with the Indians. Aside from trading and freighting, Hogeboom was also a carpenter. Like his brother, Cornelis, Mees owned slaves. On Feb. 7, 1693-4, Jan Martensen de Wever (Van Aelstynne) conveyed to Mees Hogeboom for £15 property described as being without the north gate, bounded west by the street to Rensselaer's mill, north the creek, east by the Marselis (Marsellus) property and south by the road to the river. It is known that Hoogeboom traded with the Indians at Half Moon (Waterford) and some time prior to 1700 settled there. On Oct. 4, 1700, the man who had begun life as a "knecht" or helper and later as a trader and an owner of a freighting vessel on the Hudson was elected to the office of assessor for the Half Moon.

The family name of Mees' wife is not given, but in 1683 both he and wife Catryn, as well as their daughters, Ariaantje and Geertruy, were enrolled as members of the Dutch Reformed Church at Albany. He d. Feb. 15, 1702, and his wife in 1707. They left six children (having lost one in 1682), viz.:

Ariaantje, who m. first Jean Span and second Adrianus Van Streyden; Geertruy, who m. Thomas Noxen; Antje, who m. Henry Possi; Pieter Neese, who m. Jannetje Muller; Dirk, who m. Maria Delmont; Bartholomeus, who was bap. Dec. 30, 1683, at Albany and who m. Sarah Pekok. (The foregoing has been collated from Munsell's Albany Collections and a very interesting article in the New Netherland Register, by William Becker Van Alstyne, M.D.).

According to an article by William Leggett Bramhall in Zabriskie's Claverack, the original ancestor of the Hogeboom family in America was one Killian, who brought his eldest son, Jeremiah, who was born in Holland, Apr. 5, 1712, with him. Killian settled in the town of Claverack, and here the younger son, Johannes, was b. Johannes m. Albertie Van Alen, dau. of Johannes and Sara Van Alen, of Kinderhook; they had seven sons and four daughters: Johannes, Bartholomew, Cornelia, Lawrence, Peter, Abraham, James, Johanche, Heleche, Albertie and Catharine.

JOHANNES HOGEBOOM afterward moved to the northeastern part of the town, and settled on the site of the house subsequently built by his son, Lawrence. Here his sons settled around him. The daughters, Heleche and Catherine m. and moved to Schoharie County; Johanche m. Judge Jeremiah Miller and resided in Claverack; Albertie m. Hon. Peter Van Ness and lived in Kinderhook on the place later occupied by Pres. Martin Van Buren, and called Linderwald. The oldest son, Johannes, m. Gertrude Miller, dau. of Stephen Miller, and had several children: Stephen, Albertie, Helletie, Polly, Sarah, John, Gertrude.

ABRAHAM HOGEBOOM m. Maria Vosburgh, dau. of Jacob Vosburgh of Kinderhook, and settled on the site of the present county house at Ghent, where they had ten children, (names not given in article quoted).

Bartholomew, m. Nov. 17, 1771, Polly Van Valkenburgh at East Camp (Germantown) by Dr. Cook, then pastor of that part of Claverack. They had eight children:

Albertie, Oct. 24, 1772, m. John J. Vosburgh; Youcham, Sept. 18, 1774; Mary, Jan. 8, 1776; John, July 15, 1779; Caty, Oct. 16, 1781; Peter, Sept. 29, 1783; Sary or Sara, Feb. 23, 1785, m. 1806 to John P. Van Buren, son of Peter and Dorothy (Fryenmoet) Van Buren, Jan. 28, 1787.

CORNELIS HOGEBOOM, b. July 2, 1739; m. July 14, 1761, Sarah Vosburgh. Children:

Richard C., Peter C. Alida, and John C.

Cornelis was shot by the anti-renters while he was on duty as Sheriff of the county and d. Oct., 1791; his youngest son, who was his Deputy Sheriff, was appointed to succeed his father.

LAWRENCE HOGEBOOM, m. Hester Leggett, dau. of John Leggett. Their children:

PETER and JAMES, brothers of the above, I have no records concerning.

SARA HOGEBOOM, dau. of Bartholomew and Polly Van Valkenburgh, who m. John P. Van Buren, had children:

Bartholomew Van Buren, b. July 11, 1807; m. Catharine Philip.

Peter Van Buren, b. Dec. 19, 1809; d. 1860, unm.

John Van Buren, b. Dec. 6, 1811; m. Eliza Shufelt.

Catharine Van Buren, b. Feb. 27, 1813; m. Andrus Whitbeck.

James Van Buren, b. Jan. 13, 1815, m. Emma Hudson.

Dorothy Van Buren, b. Aug. 12, 1817; m. R. H. Norton.

Barrent Van Buren, b. Oct. 18, 1820; m. Mary Vanden Bergh.

Henry Van Buren, b. Dec., 1823; m. Sarah Hudson.

According to records copied from an old family Bible these two genealogies do not agree as to the original ancestor; the list furnished to me is as follows: Johannes Hogeboom, who m. Albertie Van Allen, was a son of Piter of Claverack, whom I suppose is the Pieter Mees who m. Jannetje Muller of Claverack; he was the son of Meus or Bartholomew Hogeboom of Beverwyck, whose history is given in the beginning of this article, and who was a son of Pieter Hogeboom of Holland, as my list declares; if this is correct where does Killian, who is said to have been the father of Johannes who m. Albertie Van Allen, as given in both of these genealogies, come in? I leave it for each one to settle for him or her self.

HUN.

This family trace their ancestry to Harmen, who resided in Amersfoort, a town in Utrecht, Holland. Harmen had a son, Thomas, and a dau., Wendeltje. Thomas had a son, Harmen Thomasen, who came to America some time before 1660. In 1661 he m. Catalyntje Berck, who was b. 1625; she was a dau. of Samuel Berck of Amsterdam, Holland. (A great deal of interest relating to her family in The Hudson and Mohawk Valley Families, Vol. 1, p. 198.)

Having lost their parents at an early age, Thomas and his sister, Elizabeth, were brought up by their grandparents, Judge and Mrs. Leonard Gansevoort, Jr. In 1818 Thomas entered the Albany Boys' Academy. When only 16, he entered the Junior class at Union College, from which he graduated in 1826 with honors and the degree of B. A. Studied medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. He graduated as an M.D. in 1830. When the Cholera epidemic broke out in Albany in 1832 a hospital was instituted and Dr. Thomas Hun was appointed one of the physicians. In the Spring of 1833 he went to Europe and but for two or three brief visits home he remained until 1839. Soon after his return he was elected Professor of Institutes of Medicine in the recently organized Medical College at Albany. His inaugural address is said to have aroused great enthusiasm because of its great breadth of learning and its liberality of thought. In 1848, when the Albany Hospital was incorporated, Dr. Hun was appointed one of the Consulting Physicians. In 1858 his private practice having become so extensive that he could not attend to his duties as a Professor, he resigned from the College. In 1862 he was President of the New York State Medical Society. Later he was Dean of the Albany Medical College. He was a devout Episcopalian. The reader is referred to the aforesaid Hudson and Mohawk Valley Families for much more of interest relating to Dr. Thomas Hun and his sons, Dr. Edward, Dr. Henry, Marcus Tullius, and Leonard Gansevoort.

HUYCK.

The name is variously spelled Hughen, Huygh, Huyck. The family in Holland belonged to what are known as Burghers. They were entitled to Arms as follows: "The escutcheon in argent, a demi lion in sable; the helmet, a patrician one; the crest a demi lion of sable; the mantling argent and sable," (Hudson and Mohawk Families). The first one to come to America was John, a son of Hans; he came in company with Peter Menuit. His ancestors as far back as the 16th Century had held positions of trust in Holland. John had held the position of Chieftain of the Grodstrad Nynegan in Holland in 1617. In 1626 he took passage to America in a Dutch sailing vessel, called the Sea Gull, with his brother-in-law, Peter Menuit. John became the "koopman," or storekeeper of the Dutch West Indies Co. In the absence of a minister in the colony John became one of the comforters of the sick. When a minister arrived he was appointed a deacon of the church. He m. Lizabeth Peters,

PECKHAM.

The Colonial Peckhams of the United States trace their descent from John Peckham, who returned from the Siege of Acre with Richard Cœur De Lion in *1191. In England they have been an Anglo-Saxon family seated for an immemorial period in Southwest Kent, chiefly in the neighborhood of Wrotham. Their principal seat was at Yaldam, the Manor house of which is still standing; the Great Hall of which dates from the 14th Century. It was then occupied by Sir James Peckham, who was associated with Godfrey Chaucer on several royal commissions. Chaucer was no doubt entertained by James Peckham in the Great Hall at Yaldam. It is supposed that Sir James Peckham was the original of Chaucer's description of the Frankelyn in the Prologue to the Canterbury Tales. In the reign of Edward the Fourth William Peckham, Esq., was Cup-bearer to Arch Bishop Thomas Bourchier and later in the reigns of Henry the Seventh and Eighth the Yaldam Peckhams were members of Henry's court. They were always in the Reformers' party. James Peckham in 1632 made a Will which was witnessed by Sir Thomas Wyatt the elder and Thomas Wyatt, his son, was given a bequest of a grey horse. This family of Peckhams were intimately associated with Wyatt's Rebellion and suffered severely in consequence. The elder son of James Peckham m. a niece of Arch Bishop Cranmer, but he escaped the disaster of Wyatt's Rebellion, having d. a few years before it occurred.

The family became extinct at Yaldam in the male line in 1713, but a junior branch survived in Sussex from which John Peckham came, who was the Colonial ancestor of the American Peckhams. This John Peckham was chaplain to

* Typographical error: should read 1191.

William Seymour, Earl of Hertford, who afterwards became the Duke of Somerset and as such m. Artabella Stuart. The Duke of Somerset was one of the greatest courtiers of the reign of Charles the First.

John Peckham became a Lollard and emigrated to New England. He first appears in 1638 as one of those to whom land was allotted on the Island of Rhode Island. It is supposed that he came to America with Sir Henry Vane and Dr. John Clarke. Sir Henry Vane was descended from William Peckham, the cup-bearer, whose dau. m. Henry Fane, the name afterward being changed to Vane. Sir Henry Vane's father was Comptroller of the Household of Charles the First and the sons no doubt met at court and were intimately acquainted. John Peckham m. a sister of Dr. John Clarke and did not return to England with Sir Henry Vane.

His son William was the first Baptist minister ordained on this Continent. He was the fourth pastor of the First Baptist Church of Newport, R. I., of which Dr. John Clarke had been the first.

The Peckhams of the United States have gradually emigrated from Rhode Island until they are scattered all over the Continent. The majority of them have been land owners and farmers. As a race they have been highly educated, many of them have been eminent lawyers and physicians and a few have been clergymen. At the present time there are five Peckhams living who are, or have been, College Professors. They are Prof. William C. Peckham of the Adelphi College, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Prof. George A. Peckham, of Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio; Prof. George W. Peckham, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Prof. Anna Brown Peckham of Denison University, Denison, Ohio, and Prof. Stephen Farnum Peckham of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The most eminent branch of the family are the so-called New York Peckhams, of whom Judge Rufus W. Peckham, Sr., of the New York Court of Appeals was the representative. His son, Rufus W. Peckham, Jr., succeeded his father on the bench of the Court of Appeals and while serving there was appointed one of the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The descendants of John Peckham have been faithful and efficient soldiers of the Colonies and the United States from the French and Indian Wars of the 18th Century to the present time. None of them attained high rank, Major Peleg E. Peckham of the 7th Rhode Island Volunteers attaining the highest rank. Brigadier General Isaac P. Rodman of General Burnside's Staff was a son of Mary (Peckham) Rodman. A large number of others bearing the name served faithfully as privates and non-commissioned officers.

Prof. Stephen Farnum Peckham, who m. Dr. Harriett C. Van Buren, is best known as a writer of authority on Bitumens, especially of petroleum and asphaltum. He is an authority on questions relating to street paving with bitumens. His scientific papers are widely quoted throughout the world. He is the author of the Peckham Genealogy and of various papers on early history of Rhode Island that have appeared in The Journal of American History.

PRUYN, PRUYNE, PRYNE, OR PRUEN.

The first three generations of this family in America varied the spelling of their name as at the heading of this article. This family were entitled to a Coat-of-Arms, as follows: Shield, a field of gold or saffron on which are placed three martlets of natural color, without beaks or feet, turned to the fore-part, one at the base of the shield, the other two at either side. Crest, a barred or tournament helmet adorned with a mantling of gold or saffron and black, on the top of which on a twisted wreath of ancient kings of the same color, between the two wings of yellow or gold is placed a martlett like those on the shield, but having feet and beak looking toward dexter side. QUACKENBOSS.

The spelling of this name has been varied, and has led to some confusion in tracing the various branches of the family. By some it is said to have been originally Kwakelbosch, from Kwakel or, Quakorel, meaning a quail and bosch, a forest. The name appears once with the prefix of Van, which would mean of the quail-forest. Another form is Quakkenbos, from quakken or quaken, which means to croak as a frog and bosch or bos, a bush; this would make the word to mean the quaking bush.

Different branches seem to have adopted whatever form their fancy dictated, as these various forms are all found, Quaken, Quacken, Kwakken, Kwaeken and Kwaklen, also Kwacklen, each with the termination bosch or boss or bos. Albany and New Brunswick families, also New Jersey preferred Quackenbush. Kinderhook families used the form Quackenboss or Bosch.

Pieter, the first to come to America, was here before 1688; m. Martje —. He was a brickmaker and owned a kiln and yard at Albany. He m. in Holland. Their dau., Maritje, was the wife of Marten Van Buren, son of Cornelis, the original ancestor of that family in America. Adrian, m. 1699, Catharine Van Schaick.

Anthony, b. 1717; m. Anna Vosburgh.

Maria, b. 1753; m. 1776, John D. Hoes, who was b. 1754. (See Hoes' record and Van Buren.) This couple were the parents of Hannah Hoes, the wife of Martin Van Buren, the President.

It is a source of regret that there is no Genealogy of this family published, as it has been impossible to determine the line of descent of a number of this name who intermarried with the Van Burens.

ROOSA.

The American ancestor, Albert Heymans, landed in New Amsterdam April, 1660. He came in the ship Spotted Cow, as found in Documentary History of New York, in Vol. 3, p. 56. Albert Heymans was an agriculturist from Gelderland; his wife was Wylie Allard or Ariens. They brought with them eight children. They settled in Esopus district at Wiltwyck, now known as Kingston.

He was a man of wealth for those days, bringing considerable property from Holland, and he speedily "Occupied an influential position in the new settlement." Albert Heymans Roose, Evert Pels, and Cornelis Barnetsen Slecht were appointed the first three Schepens or Magistrates for Kingston.

In 1661 Roosa was one of three commissioners to enclose the new village at the Esopus called Hurley. At the destruction of Hurley, June 7, 1663, by the Indians two of Roosa's children with 43 others, women and children were taken captive. Roosa is cited as a leader and director of events in the early history of the Esopus. Roosa was prominent in a riot in 1667 and was with others sentenced to banishment, but Governor Francis Lovelace restored him to favor and in 1669 appointed him and Louis Du Bois two of the Overseers for Hurley. In 1673 he was confirmed as one of the officers at Esopus by Governor Anthony Colve and described as "Capt. Albert Heymans, who had been prominent in the riot of 1667." His name appears with others in the petition to Sir Edmund Andros, Governor of New York, praying he would assist them in procuring a minister for Esopus, "that can preach bothe English and Dutche, which will bee most fitting for this place, it being in its minority." He served in the military forces as mustering officer and Apr. 5, 1670, at a military rendezvous at Marblertown he served as Sergeant of Captain Henry Pawling's Company, and in 1673 he was Captain of a Company recruited from Hurley and Marblertown. SCHERMERHORN.

This family was established in the Mohawk Valley by one Jacob Jansen (son of Jan); he was b. in 1622 in Waterford, Holland; in 1654 his father was a resident of Amsterdam, Holland, and perhaps it was from there he came to America. He d. in Schenectady in 1689. He came to Beverwyck and became a prosperous Indian trader and a brewer. The story is told that in 1648 he transgressed the law by selling arms and ammunition to the Indians. He was tried by order of Governor Stuyvesant and sentenced to banishment for five years and the confiscation of all his property; several noted citizens interested themselves in his behalf and succeeded in having the banishment clause annulled, but the property confiscation was carried out. It is further stated that later on he turned the tables by sending a complaint against Stuyvesant to the States General. (Hudson and Mohawk Families.)

His Will, made May 20, 1688, devised property valued at 56,822 guilders ($23,000) showing that he must have acquired the right to possess property after the satisfaction of his sentence and also that he possessed great ability to have acquired such vast possessions, as his fortune was exceeded only by those of a few Patroons or men of high official rank. He m. Jannetje Segers, a dau. of Cornelius Segerse Van Voorhoudt. Children:

RYER SCHERMERHORN, the oldest son of Jacob Janse and Jannetje (Segers); m. July, 1696. Arianntje Bratt, the widow of Hulmer Otten, by whom she had had a dau. Trentje Otten, for whom special arrangements and contracts at the time of the second marriage were made to safe guard her interests as he had property in Holland and America.

Ryer settled in Schenectady and was one of the five patentees of the patent granted in 1684. In 1700 he was the sole survivor of the original owners of the township, so saving a few farms, the 80,000 acres of Schenectady came under the control of Ryer. This one man power became distasteful to the people who petitioned for and gained a new Charter which gave them the power of choosing five trustees for a term of three years.

Ryer nevertheless held the fort stubbornly, by right of the first Charter, which had not yet expired. The conflict lasted for over one hundred years and was finally settled by the New York Legislature which gave power into the hands of the Mayor, Alderman, and Commonality of Schenectady, Mar. 26, 1797.

In 1690, Ryer was a member of the Provincial Assembly from Albany County, and a Justice of the peace.

In 1700, he was appointed assistant to Judge of Court of Common Appeals. He had mills at Schuylersburg. He was a man of unusual ability, of firm will, undaunted courage and great power of endurance. His will was made Apr. 5, 1717; he d. Feb. 19, 1719. He left two dau. and three sons.

There were numerous intermarriages of this large and influential family with that of the Van Burens, but it has been impossible for the Editor to obtain from members of the family now living such data as would make possible such a history of this family as she desired.

VAN ALSTYNE.

According to the records in Holland, the family can be traced under different names to the crowning of "Otho" A. D. 936. The family first appears in the name of Ralako which it abandoned to take that of Wartenberg, which it bore for several centuries. Jean Ralako, who d. in Flanders, in 1236, built the Chateau de Waldstein, a name which he took to distinguish himself from his brother who bore the name of Wartenberg.

The family has been traced under the name of Balstein, in Spain, Vallenstein, in France, Halsteyn, in Flanders, and Van Alstein, in Holland.

From Waldstein, the name changed to Wallenstein, Walstein, Valstein, and finally to Van Alstein. In the early records in America, the name appears as Van Aelstyn, Van Aalsteyn, Van Alstyn, Van Alstein, Van Alstyn, and Van Alstine; at present there are three ways of spelling current among the descendants, Van Alstine, Van Alstyn, and Van Alstyn.

The family possessed two well known characteristics, "Trust in God and persevering industry." In Flanders they were loyal to the church of Rome. In Holland, to the Reformation of Luther, and later history illustrates the measure and courage of their convictions as to their true meaning of Religion and its proper method of administration.

In America the family are self-reliant in thought and action as are those who remained in the Fatherland. Independent in Politics, and Religion, making good citizens, ready defenders of home, and country of adoption. None of them are very rich nor very poor.

The direct ancestor of the American family was in New Amsterdam as early as 1646. His wife was Dirckeje Harmense. He had sons, Marten, Abraham, Lambert, Isaac, and perhaps others.

JAN MARTENSEN VAN ALSTYNE, and his wife, Dircken Hermanse, had a son, Marten, bap. at New York, July 18, 1655. Jan was known as "de Wever" or the weaver, and in 1657 was living at Albany where he owned a house and lot. In 1663 and 1667 he patented land at Kingston, and in 1664 was a tenant of Volckert, Jansz, and Jan Thomasz, upon Island Schodack. (Van Rensselaer Bowier Manuscripts, p. 826). In 1671 he bought a farm back of Kinderhook, where he and his wife resided in 1678. He d. there 1698.

In 1697, Jan de Weaver was a resident in "Renselaerswyck or the Colonie" with two children and no women in his family. (Van Deursen Genealogy).

MAJOR PETER (SANDER) VAN ALSTYNE, son of Sander Van Alstyne and Elbertie Van Alen, of Kinderhook, b. at that place and bap. at Coxsackie, June 5, 1743; d. at Adolphustown, Upper Canada, in 1811, and was buried in the Old United Empire Loyalists' burying-ground at that place; m. at Linlithgow, Sept. 24, 1769, Alida Van Alen, dau. of Cornelis Van Alen and Alida Pruyne, bap. at Kinderhook, Sept. 10, 1749-50.

Major Peter Van Alstyne lived in stirring times. He was just in the prime of manhood when the Revolution broke out, and he became a leader among the Tories of Columbia County. He was soon a marked man for his opinions, and early in 1776, was made a prisoner, with sixteen others and kept confined for sixteen days. Early in 1777, he was obliged to flee from his home to Canada, and joined General Burgoyne in Sept., 1777, leaving his wife and three children at Kinderhook. In 1778 he returned to New York, and wrote his wife to join him in that city. While there he served as Captain of Batteaux men, and afterwards as Major of Associated Loyalists. He did duty at Smithtown, Long Island, was pensioned on half pay as Captain. His estate was sequestered, and on Dec. 13, 1779, his wife petitioned Governor Clinton for passports for herself and children to join her husband in New York where he then was. This was granted, and the journey was made in three "slays," containing herself, three children, a negro boy of eleven years, and such wearing apparel and household goods as she had been able to save, (Clinton papers, vol. 5, pp. 418, 419). In Sept. 1783, Major Van Alstyne conducted the party of disbanded Loyalists and their friends to Canada. They left New York in a ship guarded by the British brig Hope, which accompanied them into the St. Lawrence. They wintered at Sorel, on the St. Lawrence, and ascended the river in open boats the following Spring. They reached Adolphustown, on the bay of Quinte, June 14, 1784, and there they settled on land granted them by the British government. Major Van Alstyne owned lots 26 and 27 of this township and acquired other property as the years passed on. He was one of the first magistrates appointed, and in this capacity received acknowledgments of claims of the Loyalists for their property confiscated in the State during the Revolution, which were investigated by special Commissioners appointed by the Government. He was Captain of the Fourth Town (Adolphustown) Company of Militia, and Commissioner for supplying the inhabitants with food.

In 1792, he was elected a member of the Legislature for Lennox and Prince Edward Counties. As Magistrate he solemnized many of the early marriages in the new settlement before the coming of the Rev. William Losee, their first minister. He is also said to have built the first grist mill at Glenora across the bay from Adolphustown. (See Canniff's Settlement of Upper Canada; Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte; United Empire Loyalists, etc.)—Van Deusen Genealogy. Children:

VAN DER POEL.

The meaning of the name is "from the lake." The earliest records of the family give their location as near Gorchen, on the Rhine, but about 1600 a branch went to Holland and from these later came Teutnes (Anthony) Cornelus (alias) Spitzberger, to America. He left no male descendants. From 1660-1687 he lived in Beverwyck. In 1671 he was magistrate. He owned one-half of Constapel's Island in the Hudson River. He m. Catrina Croon, dau. of Johannes Croon. His Will was made June 17, 1787. He left a wife and three daughters, Elizabeth, Maria, Johanna. At the time of his death he still owned a house in Amsterdam, Holland. (Hudson and Mohawk Families.)

There is also evidence of there being two others of this name in this country. Jacobus (James) Van der Poel, who m. Margaret Janson in New York July 25, 1693, and Gerrit Vander Poel, who as a widower m. Deborah Warren Feb. 12, 1697. These are descended from Wynant, son of Gerret of Holland. Wynant Vander Poel was b. in Holland and came to Albany about 1654. He resided in Albany from 1657-94. He purchased a half interest in a sawmill which for the two following centuries was known as Wynant's Mill; the date of the purchase was 1674. He moved from Albany some time between 1695-1702, as shown by his Will, which was probated in New York, 1702. To his son he left six shillings, the residue of estate to son-in-law, Wm. C. Vanden Bergh, husband of his dau., Catryn. His wife was Tryntje Melgers. Children: Cornelia, m. before 1685, Cornelis Gysbertse Vanden Berg; Melgert or Melchert Wynantse m. VAN DEUSEN.

According to the Genealogy of the Van Deursen family recently published by the Allaben Genealogy Co., to which I am indebted for many of the items referring to the intermarriages of the Van Burens and Van Deusens, this family have a very honorable and ancient ancestry: "The ancient home of the Van Deursen family is at present a small village of 407 inhabitants, called Deurne-les (near) Diest, in the South Netherlands (Belgian) Province, Brabant."

The earliest inhabitants of the county adjacent were a Celtic tribe, the Belges. The name Deursen itself keeps the memory of these early Celts alive. The word "Dur" means "water," of which "Deursen" is a locative form, "a place by the water." "In 1196, during the time of the third crusade, we find mentioned a Hendricus à Doersne (Hendrick van Doersen)." "It is not unlikely that he was in the crusade and that the cross in the Coat-of-Arms was taken up by him." "During the next, the thirteenth century, members of the family are frequently found in the 'meyery van's Hertogen-bosch' (the majorate of Boise-le-Duc), the part of Brabant in which Deursen lies and where the lords of Van Deusen kept up a kind of sovereign independency until the year of 1325." "On the 1st of March, 1325, Govert Van Doorsen acknowledged for his leige-lord, Jan. 3, the noblest duke Brabant ever had." "Govert Van Doorsen received back his ancestral property immediately in 1325 as a hereditary feudality and it thus remained in the male line until the end of the 16th century."

"Under Jan the Third's daughter, Duchess Johanna, who died in December, 1406, Jan Van Deursen, possibly the grandson or great-grandson of Govert became lord of Deursen. He married in 1419, Aleid van Bloemensweerde, and from this time on there is no break in the family line down to Abraham Pietersen van Deursen of 1607, and through him down to the American posterity."

"So far as can be ascertained the following is the line of descent:

JAN, who m. Aleid van Bloemensweerde. Their son,

JAN, m. Aleid van Domselaer; had a son,

JAN, who m. Wilelmina van Zoudenbalg, their son,

NICOLAS, who m. Machteld Proeys, their son,

JAN WILLEM, who m. a dau. of Gerritt van Heusden, their son,

JAN, who m. Elisabeth Van Heusden. This Jan was alive in 1550; his son was HENDRICK, who was b. in the old Castle. He is supposed to have been the first Protestant in the family. His wife was Maria Rutgers; their son,

WILLEM, who m. Elisabeth Gyaberts, and had a son,

PIETER, who moved from Asperen to the Province of Holland in 1581 and became Magistrate in Haarlem in 1583; his son, ABRAHAM was b. in Haarlem and bap. there Nov. 11, 1607, He m. Dec. 9, 1629, Tryntje Melchiors, also of Haarlem, and soon after emigrated to America. They had six children."

"It is probable that Abraham Pietersen and his wife left Haarlem for America very soon after their m. as no baptismal records of any of their children are found at that place between 1630 and 1635, and he is known to have been in New Amsterdam, now New York, in 1636, when he was recorded as 'of Haarlem.' " There is a great deal of interesting matter relating to Abraham in the Van Deursen book, but space will not permit me to copy more, and I refer the reader to that most interesting book. The names of their children were as follows:

Teuwis (Matthew), b. about 1631; m. about 1653, Helena Robberts; it is from this couple that those who m. Van Burens are descended.

Marytje, b. about 1632; m. (1) 1651, Thomas Jansen Mingael, who d. about 1661 or 1662; m. (2) Evert Jansen Wendell.

Isaac, b. about 1635; m. Apr. 5, 1659, at New Amsterdam, Jannetje Jans.

Jacob, b. about 1638; m. Sept. 23, 1663, Catalyntje Van Elsent.

Pieter, bap. March 23, 1642; sps. Do. Everardus Bogardus, Olof Stephensen Van Courtlant, Jan Janszen Dam, Martijte Teunis; m. Oct. 10, 1666, at New Amsterdam, Hester Webbers.

Melchior, bap. March 6, 1644; sps. Jan Stephensen, Cos Pieterszen, Anneken Bogardus; m. about 1668, Engelyie Rutgers.

SECOND GENERATION.

TEUWIS (MATTHEUS) ABRAHAMSEN (VAN DEURSEN), eldest son of Abraham Pietersen (Van Deursen) and Tryntje Melchior of New Amsterdam; b. about 1631; m. 1653, Helena Robberts.

Teuwis Abrahamsen Van Deursen early removed to Beverwyck (Albany), where he was granted a lot Oct. 28, 1658. In 1667 he removed to Claverack.

Munsell and Talcott both state, however, that he lived at Albany until 1700. On June 26, 1677, he deeded a house and lot to Paulus Martensen Van Benthuyzen, the property being afterwards transferred by Van Benthuyzen to Harne Jansen Lyndrayer. The following is an extract of the latter deed:

"Appeared before me Ro. Livingston secr. &c. and in the presence of the honorable Messieurs Richard Pretty & Andries Teller, commissaries, etc., Paulus Martensen Raenmaker (wagon maker) (Van Benthuyzen) who declared that he had in true rights, free ownership granted, conveyed, and transferred to and for the behoof of Harme Jansen Lyndrayer (ropemaker) in a certain house and lot standing and lying here in Albany, . . . bounded south by Pieter Loockermans, north by the house of Laurens Van Ale & Jan Jansen Bleecker, west and east by the public street, in breadth in front on the street (Broadway) . . . which this grantor, does by virtue of the conveyance given him by Mattheus Abrahamsen (Van Deusen) of date the 26 of June, 1677, &c.

"Done in Albany the 13th Dec. 1677.

"Richard Pretty

"Richard Martense

"A. Teller

"Acknowledged before me

"Ro Livingston, Secr."

He resided at Albany and Claverack, at which two places his children were probably b. but the baptismal records of Albany do not begin until Aug. 5, 1683, while those of Claverack date only from 1722, hence their names are not found on the records of either place. Children:

Tryantje, b. about 1654; m. about 1673, Samsen Benson.

Lysbeth (Elizabeth), b. about 1658; m. Feb. 2, 1680, Johannes Benson.

Helena, b. about 1681; m. Nov. 7, 1707, Harpert Van Deusen.

ROBBERT (TEUWISSEN) VAN DEUSEN, son of Teuwis (Mattheus) Abrahamsen Van Deursen and Helena Robberts, b. about 1665; m. (1) Sept. 22, 1689, Cornelia Martense Van Buren, dau. of Marten Cornelissen Van Buren and Maretje Quackenbosch, his first wife, of Rensselaerswyck Colony, who mentions her in his Will dated Apr. 10, 1703 (for Van Buren line see related families); m. (2) Aug. 2, 1718, Geertruy Van Benthuisen. On Jan. 20, 1695, he was accepted as a member of the Church at Kinderhook (Holland Society Year Book, 1904, p. 10). There is recorded in Albany the transfer of two tracts of land in Claverack from Hendrick Van Rensselaer to said Robert Teuwis, in Sept., 1718, (Book E., pp. 422, 424). Residence, in June, 1720, Claverack, according to a list of Freeholders of that town.

VAN RENSSELAER.

The great Patroon whose sons came to America and managed his estates was Killian, who never came to America himself, but who kept in very close touch with affairs here, was a very successful merchant in Amsterdam, Holland. A very long and interesting article upon this important family can be found in the Hudson and Mohawk Families, by Lewis.

His first wife was Hillegond Van Bytel; his second was Anna Wely, who d. in Amsterdam, June 12, 1670, having survived him 24 years. Child of the first wife Johannes, heir to his father's estate died without issue.

Children by second wife:

Maria; d. unm.

Jeremias, m. Maria, dau. of Oloff Stevensen Van Cortlandt.
Hillegond, d. unm.

Jan Baptiste, m. Susana Wely, d. Oct. 18, 1688. He was the first to visit the colony.

VAN SLYKE.

The name has been variously spelled, Van Slyk, Van Slyck, Van Slyke.

There were two of the name early in Beverwyck, one Cornelis, whose descendants settled in the Mohawk Valley, and William Petersen, whose descendants settled below Albany, in Green and Columbia Counties.

TEUNIS WILLIAMSEN VAN SLYK, son of William Pietersen, of Amsterdam, Holland; m. Feb. 5, 1696, Jannetje Hendrickse Van Wie.

He settled on a large tract of land one mile south of New Baltimore, in Greene County; he built there a stone mansion, which for many years was the family seat. Among the treasures of the descendants is a hand-made Bible, made in 1515-18. Children: Hendrick; Ida; Andreas; Gerret; Pieter; Alida; Dirck; Angeietje; Willim.

ELIZABETH VAN SLYCK, who m. Hendrick Van Buren, son of Cornelis Van Buren, the original ancestor of that family, is supposed to have been a sister of the two first settlers, Cornelis and William Petersen. They were members of the Dutch Church of Albany in 1683; they had five children:

Gerretie Van Buren, who m. about 1684 Jacob Jacobsen Schermerhorn.

Maas Van Buren, m. (1) Ariantje Van Wie; (2) Magdalena Bogard.

Numerous other members of this large family intermarried with Van Burens, but it has been impossible to establish their connection with the original ancestor much to the regret of the Editor. There is no Genealogy of the Van Valkenburg family and records are meagre.

VAN VECHTEN.

The name was first spelled Vectum and means a place of fighting, and has been prominent in Roman Church and other records at Utrecht, Holland, from A. D. 1200 to the present. A fort now stands where at one time a Roman camp was placed called Vechten, and there have been recovered hundreds of Roman relics from the situation. This place is near a crossing of the Rhine. The river Vecht has its origin nearby.

The family bore Arms as follows: Shield, sable, a fesse battled and counter-embattled and cotised, argent. Crest: Issuing out of a ducal coronet, a pair of eagle's wings erect, dexter wing sable; sinister wing argent.

Teunis Dircksen Van Vechten, a son of Dirck Van Vechten of Utrecht, came to America in 1638, sailing from Holland in the ship Arms of Norway. He brought with him his wife and a child and two servants. Settled on the Hudson opposite Albany. Here he had a farm; later he moved to Rensselaerwyck. Children: Dirck Theunissen. Cornelis Theunissen, m. (1) Sara Solomonse Goeway, in 1668; m. (2) Annatje Leendertse; m. (3) Maria Lucase Claas, a widow. Gerret Theunissen. Pieterze Theunissen.

DIRCK TEUNISEN or THEUNISSEN, son of Teunis Dirckesen Van Vechten, d. Nov. 25, 1702; m. Jannetje Vrelant of Communipaw, N. J., dau. of Michiel Jansen Vrelant. He purchased, Sept. 20, 1681, from Stephen Van Cortland, a tract in the Catskills, then in Albany County; this was afterwards confirmed by Patent under the hand and seal of his Excellency Thomas Dongan, Governor of the State of New York, Mar. 21, 1685. This property he made over to his sons Samuel and Johannes, after the father's death to their brothers Michiel and Abraham, by a deed of Mar. 30, 1715, and Johannes made over his share to Samuel on Aug. 9, 1721, so that Samuel acquired the whole of the property and made it over at his death to his nephew, Teunis. Children: Jannetje, b. Sept. 25, 1660. Wyntje, b. Jan. 17, 1662. Michiel, b. Nov. 28, 1663. Neeltji, b. Mar. 24, 1665. Johannes, b. June 24, 1666. Teunis, b. May 24, 1668. Antje, b. May 4, 1670. GERRET THEUNISSEN VAN VECHTEN, was the third son of Teunis Dirckesen, m. (1) Antje Janse; and (2) Grietje Volkertse Douw, a dau. of Volkert Jansen Douw. In 1678 he and Jan Conell bought of Capt. Jan Clute his claim in the Catskills. In 1680 he bought of Gerret Van Schlichtenhorst a negro named Harry for 200 skipples of indian corn, also a negro named Dick for 150 pieces of "nooten-hout," two loads of hay and 24 beavers in hogs. In 1697 he petitioned the Governor for his brother who had accidentally killed a child of Col. Schuyler. His will was made in Mar. 8, 1680-1, in which he spoke of his wife Grietje and son Johannes by the first wife and son Volkert by the second wife.

JOHANNES GERRETSEN VAN VECHTEN was the son of the first wife of Gerret Teunissen Van Vechten; he was m. Mar. 19, 1699, to Maria Bogardus, dau. of Pieter Bogardus, son of Domine Bogardus and Anneke Janse.

They had a dau. Margarieta who was b. Nov. 24, 1705, and m. Dec. 23, 1737, Barent Van Buren, son of Marten (Marten, Cornelis) and Judike Barents (Meindersen); he was b. VOSBURGH.

The name of Abraham Pietersen Vosburgh appears in the records as a settler in the colony of Rensselaerswyck as early as Aug., 1649; beginning with Easter in 1651, he paid rent to the Patroon of 16 florins a year for a house lot, north of the Patroon's house. In the "Oath to the Patroon, taken by all the householders and free men of the Colonie, Nov. 23, 1651," we find among the names Abraham Pietersze Vosburg. On Apr. 15, 1652, he was given permission by the Court to continue building his house, notwithstanding the location. On the same day Abraham Pietersen Vosburgh and Derrick Janssen were appointed surveyors of buildings; they were sworn two days later. The duties of Abraham Pietersen Vosburgh as surveyor of buildings also appear to have included the surveying of land. He held this office up to 1654 and probably later. He was by trade a carpenter, and he contracted with the authorities to build the first bridges at Beverwyck.

Mar. 17, 1654, a warrant was issued to the treasurer "in favor of Abraham Pietersen Vosburgh, carpenter, to the amount of 200 florins, for building two bridges." Through his occupation as carpenter and bridge builder, Abraham Pietersen Vosburgh became a sawmill operator and owner. Hans Jansz Enchiuys or Hans Jansz from Rotterdam, conducted several sawmills in the colony. On Sept. 30, 1656, they obtained a lease of the water power on the creek south of the farm of Jan Barentsen Wemp. The lease commenced Jan. 1, 1657, and ran for six successive years; rent, 100 guilders or 100 good merchantable boards and two pair of fowls each year. A condition of the lease was that the lessees were not to sell liquor to the Indians. A sawmill was erected on the creek which was later known as Wynant's Kil. Hans Jansz was more or less a silent partner, at least his name never appears again in the records of this enterprise. On Jan. 29, 1657, Abraham Pietersen Vosburgh proposed to sell his house and lot in Beverwyck to the highest bidder. The lot was 10 rods deep and 4 rods wide; it was next to Thomas Clabbort's (Chambers) lot. This paper is imperfect and unexecuted and there is no evidence that sale was made; but it is important as it shows that Thomas Chambers was his neighbor, this being the Thomas Chambers who was one of the early settlers of Esopus (Wiltwyck or Kingston).

The last events of Abraham Pietersen Vosburgh's life are found in the history of Esopus. Due to the fact of the Indians having been given liquor, a serious disturbance developed and an Indian was killed; they attacked the settlers and thirteen were taken as prisoners by the Indians, among whom was "a carpenter, Abraham by name." This occurred on Sunday, Sept. 21, 1659, which date is taken as the date of his death as it is not known how soon thereafter he was killed. Although Abraham Pietersen Vosburgh met his death in the prime of manhood, probably under forty years of age, his widow, Geertruy Pieterse, a sister of Barent Pietersen

Coeymans, the miller of Norman's Kil, reared his three sons who became the progenitors of the thousands who bear the name of Vosburgh. Much interesting material can be found relating to her in the history of Fort Orange or Albany. The children of Abraham Pietersen Vosburgh and his wife Geertruy Pieterse Coeymans were as follows:

Pieter, b. about 1652; m. Jannetje Barentse.

Jacob, b. about 1654; d. 1732; m. Dorothea Janse Van Alstyne.

Marietje, b. about 1656; d. before 1698; m. Oct. 20, 1689, Isaac Jansen Van Alstyne.

Isaac, b. about 1658; d. 1760-65; m. Aug. 1, 1686, at Albany, Annetje Jans Goes.

Abraham, b. about 1660; doubtful, as there are no records concerning him.

PIETER ABRAHAMSEN VOSBURGH, the eldest son of Abraham Pietersen, was the last to have children and is the progenitor of the smallest branch of the family. He m. Jannetje Barentse, dau. of Barent Meyntersen and his wife Eytje; the marriage took place as early as 1689 and probably before 1683.

Pieter made his will before he had any children. There is no record of its probate. On Dec. 9, 1676, a lease is recorded from Louwrens Van Alen to Pieter Vosburgh for five Morgans of land at Kinderhook (a Morgan was two acres), and also a piece called the Achterland (rear tract) in the Groot Stuck; the lease ran for sixty years, commencing from Aug., 1676.

He was one of the grantees of the Kinderhook Patent, receiving six allotments. On July 6, 1713, Pieter Vosburgh, Johannis Van Alen and Pieter Van Buren obtained from Jesina Gardenier and her husband Evert Wheeler "the water Course of a Certain Kil or Creek, called or known by the name of Valleties kill, for them to Erect and build a Saw mill thereon, above the bridge which leads to Pompoenick from groot Stuck." This land was at Valatie.

Pieter Vosburgh was sworn in on May 27, 1691, as one of the Justices of Albany city and county. He held court at Kinderhook; according to the records, he held this office until 1696 and probably later. On June 8, 1703, a certificate of the election of Pieter Vosburgh, Lambert Jansen and Pieter Verslyke as Trustees of the town of Kinderhook was filed at Albany. He held this office until 1707 and probably later. He was elected an Elder of the Kinderhook Church in 1716. The last time his name appears in the records is among the freeholders and inhabitants of the Kinderhook, in the year of 1720; at this time he was about seventy years old. No record of his death has been found. Children:

Geertruy, b. about 1691; m. May 20, 1708, at Albany.

Pieter Van Buren (see his record for children).

Eytje, bap. June 11, 1693, Albany; m. Jan Tysen Goes.

Abraham, bap. Jan. 20, 1695; m. Elizabeth Winne.

Barent, bap. Nov. 7, 1697, Albany; m. Jannetje Van Schaack.

Meyndert, bap. Jan. 4, 1702, Albany.

JACOB ABRAHAMSEN VOSBURGH is supposed to have been the first of the second generation to have married and his eldest son, Abraham, was thus the first grandchild of Abraham Pietersen and Geertruy Vosburgh.

Jacob set up an establishment for himself when he leased from Louwrens Van Alen, on May 7, 1678, at Kinderhook, a farm and one-half of an island occupied by Pieter Moree. The lease ran for six years. The homestead, which consisted of a house, barn and two haystacks, was surrounded by a fence, valued at 31 whole merchantable beaverskins at 8 guilders the piece.

His name was affixed to the lease as Jacob Abrahamse Vosburgh and his mark, made by himself, appears as I. A. V. B. This lease fixes approximately the date of his marriage to Dorothea Janse Van Alstyne.

From 1677 to 1682, a number of unimportant suits appear in the court records. On Aug. 6, 1683, he contributed to the support of the new minister at Albany, Dominie Godfridus Dellius, "one and one half pieces of eight." On the contribution list his name appears just below that of his mother, another proof of his early marriage and indicating that he was the head of a family.

On July 16, 1681, he bought from Marten Cornelisen Vas, "a bouwery at Kinderhook," consisting of the one-fourth part of the Groote Stuck, containing a house and barn and also the plow and harrow on the premises.

On Jan. 4, 1681, he appeared in court at Albany and took the oath of Constable of Kinderhook, for one year or until further orders. He held this office until May 5, 1685, when he was relieved from the duties, with the thanks of the Court for his services. This is the last time his name appears in the Albany records in connection with Kinderhook. He was one of the grantees of the Kinderhook Patent, but no record can be found of the transfer of the several allotments made to him. At some time between 1685 and 1697, he removed to Livingston Manor, where he was one of the first settlers. His house appears upon a map of Livingston Manor made on the 20th day of Oct., 1714, by John Beatty, deputy surveyor. It was situated on the bank of Roeloff Jansen's kil, about five or six miles southeast of the manor house.

Jacob Vosburgh was listed among the inhabitants of Dutchess County, in the census of 1714. Four of his sons, Abraham, Jan, Dirk, and Marten, were all members of the Independent Company of the Manor of Livingston, as it was mustered at the Manor House on Nov. 30, 1715.

On July 4, 1722, he was elected one of the Elders of the Linlithgo Church and was installed the following day; he held this office until his death. On Oct. 15, 1732, Coenrat Ham was installed as an Elder there "in the place of the deceased Jacob Vosburgh." Thus approximately is established the date of his death; he was about eighty years of age at the time. He was the progenitor of the largest branch of the Vosburgh family. In the early generations his descendants remained principally near where he settled; that is, on Livingston Manor and in upper Dutchess County.

As before stated, he married Dorothea Janse Van Alstyne, dau. of Jan Martensen de Wever and Derckien Hermanse, his wife. Children:

Abraham, b. about 1680; m. about 1705, Claartje Bressy.
Jan, b. about 1683; m. about 1715, Cornelia Knickerbocker.

Pieter, bap. May 23, 1686, at Albany; m. Feb. 18, 1717, Dirkie Van Alstyne.

Isaac, bap. June 16, 1689, Albany.

Dirk, bap. Dec. 31, 1693, Albany; m. Apr. 8, 1729, Kinderhook, Alida Van Alen.

Geertruy, b. about 1695; m. May 23, 1725, Albany, Evert Knickerbocker.

Marten, bap. Jan. 31, 1697, Albany; m. (1) Oct. 21, 1719, Eytje Van Buren (see her record for list of children);
m. (2) Betje Van Dyck (?).

Marytje, bap. Nov. 12, 1699, Kingston; m. Jacob Decker.

Tryntje, bap. July 10, 1703, Kingston; m. Aug. 9, 1734, Kinderhook, Matheus Goes.

Jacob, Jr. (doubtful).

ISAAC VOSBURGH, the youngest of the three brothers, was b. about 1658. He is the progenitor of a large branch of the family, a restless branch, strongly characterized with the pioneer instincts. His descendants within two generations were found in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont, the Mohawk Valley and the Province of Quebec. The Albany and Coxsackie members of the family originate through this line. Isaac first appears in the Albany court records while still a minor. On Sept. 5, 1676, his brother Pieter sued Jan Thysen Goes, for an assault upon Isaac, committed in Pieter's barn. The wife of Jan Thysen saw Isaac chasing her husband's cows; she told Jan Thysen, whereupon he jumped over the fence and according to his own testimony, admitted that he had hit the lad (Isaac) once. It appeared in the testimony that the fence was in bad condition and that Jan Thysen's cows were on the Vosburgh land at the time that Isaac was chasing them. Goes was fined for the assault and also he had to pay the costs of the action.

Before his marriage Isaac lived with his brother Pieter on the homestead farm on the "Groot Stuck." One of the provisions of Pieter's will, made in 1690 was that his "brother Isak shall have half of the land of the farm at the Kinderhook, situated on the Grote Stuck, provided he pay half of what is still due on account of the farm."

On Aug. 1, 1686, the first banns were pronounced at Albany of the marriage of Isaac Vosburgh and Annatje Jans Goes, dau. of Jan Thysen Goes, mentioned above. On Apr. 2, 1713, Pieter sold to Isaac a part of the land on Kinderhook Creek, at Pomponick, and Isaac also bought adjoining land from Dirck Wessels Ten Broeck, which he shortly sold to Abraham Van Alstyne. There is no record of Isaac's owning land before 1713. The names of Isaac and Pieter Vosburgh appear in the several lists of the inhabitants of Kinderhook.

Isaac was a private in Capt. Abraham Van Alstyne's company, according to the muster roll, dated Sept. 17, 1715.

Isaac Vosburgh lived probably to the advanced age of 105 years, and died at Kinderhook about 1760-65. The Balance and Columbian Repository was a weekly paper published at Hudson, N. Y. In its early numbers appears a very interesting serial article entitled: "Notes on the Natural History of Kinderhook." In the part of this serial published on Feb. 9, 1802, in Vol. I, No. 6, the author mentions that one of the characteristics of the town is the longevity of the inhabitants and cites the following instances: "Isaac Vosburgh, of this place was 105 years of age when he died; Eliza Vosburgh was 93; another woman of the same name was 95." This article was written before 1802. A careful analysis of all the known Isaacs in the Vosburgh family leaves only two that the article can refer to. I do not hesitate to affirm that it is almost a certainty that the Isaac written of here is the subject of this sketch. As before stated, Isaac was b. about 1658; d. about 1760-65; m. Aug. 1, 1686, at Albany, Annetje Janse Goes, a dau. of Jan Tysz and Steyntyje Jans. Children:

Abraham, bap. Oct. 16, 1687, Albany; d. y.

Geertruy, bap. Apr. 4, 1689, Albany; d. y.

WILLIAMS.

WILLIAM WILLIAMS, the ancestor of the Columbia County family, came with his two sons from Wales. It is not known just the year they came, but they were here at the time of the outbreak of the last French war, as it is known that the father, William Williams, enlisted in the Colonial service. As he never returned, it is supposed that he was lost in the bloody defeat of the ill-fated forces of Braddock in his attack on Fort Duquesne.

Of the two sons, David settled in Schoharie County. Aaron m. Mary Lampman, a sister of Peter Lampman. He leased and cleared a new farm a little East of Copake Lake. He built a small house consisting of only one room and a loft with no floor but the ground, but in this house he reared a family of twelve children and they and their descendants have always borne an honorable part in the history of that part of Columbia County. The names of the children were: William; Elizabeth; Casperas; David; Peter; Nelly; Cornelius; Henry; Lannah; Clary; Hannah, and John. It is from the youngest son, John, that the Editor traces her descent. He m. Catherine Robison, a dau. of James Robison of Clermont and Hillsdale; they had seven children, five sons and two daughters; one of the sons, James, m. Nancy Schaffer, and one of their daughters, Margaret, m. Rev. Bartley L. Van Buren, the father of the Editor.

WINNE.

The family was an English family originally and it is presumed they fled to Holland during the religious persecution and that Pieter came from there to America. Pieter was b. in Ghent, Flanders. He m. Tannetji Adams, who had been b. in Leauwarden Vrieslandt. After coming to America they settled at Bethlehem, near Albany, July 6, 1684. He acquired considerable property, consisting of farms, sawmills and timber land. He and wife made a joint will in 1697. Their children were all b. in Holland and were as follows:

Pieter Pietersen, b. 1643.

Adam, b. 1645.
